100 Americans to Return From Cuba

Plane Bringing Medical Supplies To Take Them Back to Miami

HAVANA (AP) — One hundred Americans will return to the United States Sunday aboard an airliner bringing medical supplies to Cuba, a Swiss diplomat said today.

He said the plane was due to leave for Havana from Miami, Fla., today but that the flight was delayed to give the repatriates time to get ready for the trip.

The Americans have been living in Cuba and have expressed a desire to leave. They remained behind despite a general repatriation drive.

Brother Denied VA Aid; She Won't Pay Federal Taxes

CHICAGO (AP) — A stenographer says she hasn't paid her income taxes—an estimated $24,000—in 20 years because she believes the Veterans Administration has cheated her brother.

Miss Olga Hoback, 57, yesterday disclosed in a letter to the Internal Revenue Service that she had evaded paying income taxes by claiming four dependents on her payroll deduction although she supports only herself and her brother.

Miss Hoback, who said she never has filed a tax return, works for a Loop law firm for $80 a week. She said she doesn't have much money but she would be willing to pay her back taxes if her brother, Arthur, 50, could get compensation from the Veterans Administration.

Miss Hoback said her brother suffered a nervous breakdown in the Army in 1941 and after five months service was honorably discharged as a schizophrenic, or split personality. He has been unable to work since.

The VA said Hoback was discharged in August 1941, before the start of World War II, and therefore does not qualify for compensation.

Ride Back of 45-Foot Whale For 3 Hours

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Four marine biologists say they rode the back of a 45-foot-long finback whale for three hours off the coast of San Diego.

The biologists, wearing skin-diving equipment, said the whale had become entangled in a fish net and line and apparently was fatigued from leaving them when they spotted it Tuesday.

Nicklin said he and his companions jumped on its back one at a time. They said they pulled its dorsal fin, looked it in the eye, swam alongside it and sat in the spray blown from its spout. They took pictures to prove it.

Too Tired to Swim

"He was so exhausted he couldn't swim away," said Nicklin. "When we first jumped on he rolled a little and ducked his head, but that was the only opposition."

Then, Nicklin said, they freed the whale from the net and fish line and he "gave a flip of the tail and really got up steam."

The last they saw of the whale it was headed out to sea.

Nicklin said the whale was probably young, because it was smooth and slimy. He said finbacks often grow to 70 feet and usually have barnacles.

Along with Nicklin, 35, were Alvin Santmyer, 36, William De Court and Frank Morejohn.

"It was quite an experience," said Santmyer. "It was a little eerie—out of science fiction—swimming around out there and him following us with his eyeballs."

Plans were afoot previously for a special flight to bring 250 Cuban-Americans to Miami, but that flight was canceled abruptly last week.

Also eager to leave Cuba are more than 30 Americans, imprisoned on various counterrevolutionary charges, and hundreds of relatives of the Bay of Pigs invasion prisoners who were ransomed for $53 million in badly needed American food and medicine.

The flight set up for Sunday may be the last air shipment of ransom installments to Cuba. An ocean cargo liner, the 400-foot SS Shirley Lykes, is scheduled to load 6,000 tons of ransom at Baltimore and then call at Port Everglades, north of Miami. There it will take on another 1,000 tons of food, pharmaceuticals, biologicals, vitamins and insecticides to hand over to Fidel Castro.

Not Under Arrest

ELISABETHVILLE, Katanga, the Congo (AP)—President Mobutu Tshombe of Katanga was back under surveillance in his palace Thursday night after making a peace tour to the Rhodesian border and calling on his disorganized troops not to resist U.N. forces.

U.N. officials said Tshombe no longer was under house arrest because he showed willingness to cooperate with the United Nations. But they said he will have to observe the nightly curfew imposed on Elisabethville on Dec. 30 after U.N. forces seized control of the provincial capital.

Not Under Arrest

A U.N. spokesman in New York said Tshombe will not be restrained otherwise unless he tries to incite Katangans against the United Nations or remove his call for a search-and-seize policy.

Tshombe told newsmen in Elisabethville on the border of Northern Rhodesia, that he made his tour Thursday "to stop bloodshed and prove my good intentions."

But he insisted at a news conference that every movement by U.N. troops in a new direction in his province must be negotiated beforehand. The British consulate in Elisabethville said Tshombe had given a guarantee only for the movement of U.N. troops to Sakania, where the railroad crosses the Rhodesian border 200 miles southeast of Elisabethville.

The U.N. command still was apprehensive about the situation in Katanga, the major industrial center 180 miles northwest of Elisabethville, where disarmed followers of Tshombe were reported ready to blow up the copper and cobalt plants and a power dam if the U.N. tried to move in.

There was no indication yet what the U.N. command plans to do about Katanga. A report from Kinshasa, just across the border in Northern Rhodesia, said Katanga Interior Minister Godfrid Mwaanga left Mbandaka for Katanga after conferring with Tshombe.

Secretary-General U Thant had ordered Tshombe put under house arrest Tuesday after the fiery president threatened to detonate the installations at Kolwezi if U.N. forces advanced on the town. The order was lifted after Tshombe offered to cooperate, and he set out on his peace pilgrimage.

Tshombe drove to the border in a black sedan, exhorting remnants of his troops not to fire on a U.N. column trying to open clogged road and rail supply lines from Northern Rhodesia to food-short Elisabethville.

Tshombe told ragged soldiers who crowded around his car, "I do not want the people to be massacred."

No Shots Fired

Tshombe made the 174-mile journey to the border town of Mbandaka without a shot being fired. A lone U.N. jeep escorted the presidential limousine as it moved slowly several miles ahead of the U.N. column.

The U.N. column camped for the night in Mbandaka and planned to push on today to Sakania.

Fund to Free Cubans Raised By Cardinal

Cushing Makes Statement to Put End to Many Rumors

BOSTON (AP)—Richard Cardinal Cushing, Roman Catholic archbishop of Boston, has disclosed that he raised $1 million to help liberate Cuban invasion prisoners.

Cardinal Cushing released a statement Thursday identifying himself as solely responsible for the collection of the $1 million. He said he made the statement because of the many rumors concerning the "mysterious donor."

The prelate also said he wanted to clarify reports that the gift had come from sources "with which I have no identification."

"It is appropriate and fitting for a Catholic prelate of the United States to have a part in the liberation of the Cuban fighters who love their country and the faith of their fathers," he said.

Castro's Demand

Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro made a last-minute demand for $2.9 million in cash before he would release 1,113 Bay of Pigs prisoners. He claimed the money was owed him for the release last April of 60 other prisoners, sick and wounded.

The money was in addition to the $53 million worth of food and drugs used to ransom the 1,113 prisoners. Gen. Lucius D. Clay, head of a committee which advised and assisted families of the prisoners, obtained a $1.9 million loan on his own signature. Then he sent telegrams to industry leaders seeking contributions toward the loan.

A survey by The Associated Press of 25 companies indicated that contributions to this special fund ranged from $10,000 to $150,000.

It was announced at the time that the other $1 million was contributed, at the request of Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, by an anonymous donor.

In Washington, a Justice Department spokesman said the cardinal pledged the money as the direct result of a telephone call from Kennedy asking for help.

Town Struck By Tornado

Much of Business Area, Many Homes, 2 Churches Razed

SPRING HILL, Tenn. (AP)—A freakish winter tornado hit this middle Tennessee town early today, wrecked much of the business district, dozens of homes and destroyed two Negro churches. The twisted skipped over an orphanage where 180 children slept. No serious injuries were reported.

At least eight commercial buildings, including a bank, were smashed and half the Spring Hill High School was demolished.

A unit of the Tennessee National Guard was called out to help law enforcement officers search for the injured, clear debris and guard against looting.

Rushed to this town of 650 were units of the Tennessee Highway Patrol, civil defense, the State Highway Department and linemen from telephone and power companies.

The only damage reported at the Tennessee Orphanage Home, a Church of Christ institution, was a tin roof blown from a barn, and uprooted trees. The orphanage is only 2,000 yards from the smashed business district.

Mayor R. B. Toome said he understood all the orphans slept through the violent storm.

Countries Trading With Cuba Told They May Lose U. S. Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has warned countries whose ships go to Cuba that they run the danger of losing U.S. foreign aid, the state department said today.

Press Officer Joseph W. Reap declined to list countries that have received the warning.

He said, however, that efforts have been under way to persuade various maritime countries to end their shipping stops at Cuban ports. This is being done to carry out the provisions in the new aid law, he said.

The aid bill which became law last October, included provisions requiring—on the REAP act—that "all ships be cut off to countries whose ships carry goods to Cuba."

Must Risk Frictions, He Asserts

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy has decided to assert a more vigorous and determined American leadership in world affairs even at the cost of creating major frictions with U.S. allies, especially in Europe.

The President's determination is clearly disclosed in a discussion he held with newsmen in Palm Beach last week, a partial text of which the White House made public Thursday night. As originally reported, the views could not be attributed directly to Kennedy.

What he said apparently represents the hardening of an attitude which has been developing within the administration for many months.

Frictions Inevitable

The fact that he said it, in response to a question, emphasizes his present conviction that the United States can get the results it wants on some important issues only by following what amounts to an independent policy.

Kennedy said he thought that "too often in the past we have defined our leadership as an attempt to be rather well regarded in all these countries."

"The fact is," he said, "you can't possibly carry out any policy without causing major frictions."

He said he thought the United States "ought to be more aware" of the fact that "we are going to incur, at intervals, people's displeasure."

As evidence, Kennedy noted that in dealing with the Congo situation the United States has been following a policy "somewhat different" from that of Great Britain and other countries in giving strong support to the United Nations in its effort to bring about unification of the divided African nation.

Secret Briefing

In the case of India and Pakistan, he said the United States has tried to reconcile the two countries because it believes this is essential to the defense of the Asian subcontinent, and both of them are "dissatisfied with us."

When he first expressed his views to newsmen at Palm Beach he was talking "for background." This meant that reporters could report the views but could not say directly that the President had stated them at a background news conference.

As comments now on the record, they constitute probably the strongest assertion of the need for independent U.S. action on some occasions that a president has made since the United States began to build the present system of alliances 14 years ago.

Kennedy May Drop Background Talks

2 British Papers Quote Him In Violation of Secrecy Rule

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Washington institution of journalistic background briefings probably is dead so far as President Kennedy is concerned.

And probably there will be few real mourners around the White House and even fewer among those newsmen who would prefer to get the news out in the open in the first place.

These backgrounders have a set of rules under which the person doing the briefing may not be quoted by name or in direct quotes. Reporters must resort to paraphrase and to pinning what they learn on unimpeachable sources, or, as in the case of the President, "the highest authority."

British Quote President

Kennedy held a backgrounder at Palm Beach, Fla., on New Year's eve with 35 newsmen clustered around the living room of his vacation residence. The stories went out afterward, attributed to the highest authority or friends of the President.

But then, over the weekend, two British newspapers turned up with direct quotes from the briefing and identified Kennedy as the source. White House authorities said there was some breaching of the rules in the American press.

So Thursday the White House made public some of the quotations picked up in Britain. Among the major points in the interview:

Newsmen who attended the Palm Beach briefing, obeyed the rules and then saw Kennedy's words in print in British papers, kicked up a rumpus. Now word is circulating that Kennedy probably will have no more backgrounders.

His press secretary, Pierre Salinger, said as much in writing to John H. Colburn, managing editor of the Richmond, Va., Times-Dispatch and chairman of the Freedom of Information Committee of the American Society of Newspaper Editors.

Colburn had written Salinger Monday that much of what Kennedy had said at Palm Beach on a non-attributable basis he had

No Delay in Data on Bills

Old Rule Will be Ignored in Release To State's Press

MADISON (AP) — Newsmen covering the Wisconsin Assembly had their first brush with its new leadership Thursday and emerged with what they came for—news.

Cause of the ruckus was an old Assembly rule to which no one has paid attention for years. The rule, dating back to the time when records were kept in handwriting, provides that all bills and resolutions must go to the Committee on Revision before being formally introduced in the Assembly.

The Revisions Committee checks each bill to make sure that it is in proper shape. Then, usually the next legislative day, the bill is reported back to the Assembly, when it gets its first and second reading before being sent to its proper committee for study.

For many years, reporters have been given copies of the bills when they are offered in the Assembly and before the Revisions Committee gets them.

Thursday, however, Chief Clerk

2 More Die in State Traffic

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The deaths of two elderly motorists raised Wisconsin's 1963 highway toll to 14 today, compared with 24 on this date a year ago.

Michael Murphy, 85, of Dodgeville, died Thursday night at a Dodgeville hospital of injuries received Tuesday when his car collided with a truck at a highway intersection on the outskirts of the city.

Ralph Simoneau, 62, Milwaukee, died Thursday of injuries sustained Jan. 4 in a traffic accident in West Allis.

Military Planes Crash in Alaska, Kansas Areas

KODIAK, Alaska (AP)—A twin-engine Navy patrol plane carrying a crew of 12 crashed and burned as it approached for a landing Thursday night.

Five survivors were taken to a hospital at Kodiak Naval Air Station. They were reported in serious condition.

The plane, a P-3V, was approaching a landing strip at the Navy installation when it hit Womens Mountain, about 1,000 feet high, near the end of the runway.

A Navy spokesman said rain was falling. He said the pilot had not radioed the plane was in trouble.

WICHITA, Kan. (AP)—Two Air Force officers parachuted safely from low altitude but their plane commander was killed in the flaming crash of a B-47 jet bomber near Wichita Thursday night.

The body of Capt. P. L. Pudwill, 29, Detroit Lakes, Minn., was found strapped in his seat after the fire burned out.

Susan Westlund, Neenah, Joins 64 Colombian Peace Corps Members

BY FERN SMITH
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

NEENAH — On Sunday Susan Westlund, daughter of the E. B. Westlunds, 1108 Hewitt St., will be winging her way via Chicago and Miami to a new and exciting adventure in Colombia, South America. An entirely new experience in a strange country seems to share the attractively capable young lady's enthusiasm for the venture with a serious purpose.

As a very young member of the Peace Corps Group, called curiously, "Colombia Four," Susan joins 64 women and men in an assignment to teach at one of the 24 universities in Colombia. She will be a "professora" — literal translation assistant professor but she modestly describes it as "a teacher." She will be away two years and the specific assignment to a university will be made during the two-week indoctrination period in Bogota.

Susan Westlund

Assignment

Where would she like to go? All members of "Colombia Four" have put in requests and Susan's was for the high country where she might have an opportunity to ski. Besides, she would like to keep the temperate zone pace, if at all possible, since she has always lived in the Pacific Northwest and Midwest. "I feel sure that I would work better and think better in this climate," she observed but hastened to explain that she would forego all this if she can have a teaching position in some small university where she will be able to plan her own course of study.

What does she look forward to the most? Teaching. Susan received her degree in English from the University of Washington, Seattle, in 1961, the 100th anniversary of the school. Since graduation she has worked summers at Kimberly Clark, radio station corps, the first worked in the villages, the second in the cities, and the third was made up of social workers.

Among her group a considerable number have master of arts degrees and considerable teaching experience. "I feel like 'low man on the totem pole' but I'll give it my best," Susan said happily, then added modestly, "I expect to learn a great deal more than I contribute. I look forward to meeting the people, living among them, seeing the country and being a part of a university which is much different from ours. In Colombia university students spend a great deal of their time setting political patterns for their country and they make themselves heard. This will be interesting to observe."

The assignment will last for two years and one month's vacation is granted each year. Peace Corps members are urged to spend this time traveling in South America.

Since the strenuous training at Texas Western, Susan reportedly finds herself thinking in Spanish. The refresher course in Spanish occupied about half of each school day, five and one-half days a week. Other courses included a study of the history of Colombia, the economics, the politics and its growth.

Teachers to Attend Class

Students Will Get Vacation for 1 Day At Kaukauna Schools

KAUKAUNA — Students enrolled in Harrison, Park and Nicolet public schools will not attend classes Jan. 21 because an in-service growth meeting has been scheduled for elementary teachers at Nicolet School.

In-service sessions are required by the State Department of Public Instruction. Days have been added to the school calendar to insure youngsters attending the same number of class sessions as before.

Miss G. Margaret Wilson, who holds a B.A. and M.A. in education from the University of Kentucky and who had done advanced work at Northwestern University, will speak on "Teaching of Spelling." She currently is a consultant for a firm printing spelling texts.

A movie will be shown on "Team Teaching" after which teachers will discuss the program. Orlo Miller, representative of the State Department of Public Instruction, will speak on "School Camping," and Miss Sue Busch, reading consultant, will speak on "Modern Reading Methods for Middle and Upper Grades."

Village Mails 1,926 Tax Bills

LITTLE CHUTE — A total of 1,926 tax bills including 147 personal property tax notices were mailed Wednesday, according to Mrs. Loreta Versteegen, clerk-treasurer, and special days have been established for payment of taxes.

The clerk-treasurer will collect taxes Jan. 10, 11, 16, 17, 18, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 30 and 31 and Feb. 6, 7, 8, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 20, 21, 22, 26, 27 and 28.

Normal office hours are from 9 a.m. to noon and 1 to 4 p.m. For the convenience of taxpayers, the clerk will hold 6 to 8 p.m. hours on Fridays from Jan. 11 through Feb. 22. In addition 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. hours will be observed on Jan. 31 and Feb. 28.

Persons desiring to pay on the installment plan can pay one-half of their taxes to the village clerk by Jan. 31 and the second half of taxes to the county treasurer before July 31 without penalty.

Menasha Lists Seven Applications for Public Works Post

MENASHA — Mayor John Klein (this morning said he has received seven applicants for the job of director of public works.

All but one of the applicants are from Wisconsin. Two applicants are from Fond du Lac, and one each from Milwaukee, Green Bay, Greendale, and Stevens Point, with one out of state applicant from Niagara Falls, N.Y.

Persons interested in the position must have an application in by Jan. 21, according to Mayor Klein.

3 File Papers in Neenah Elections

Upsurge in Political Activity Reported With Deadline Jan. 29

NEENAH — The upsurge of political activity in Neenah continues as three aldermanic candidates filed nomination papers. Another Neenah resident also took out papers.

Filing papers today and yesterday were Sidney E. Donaldson, 433 Hawthorne St., and Milton H. Boehm, 429 Lowell Place, both candidates for the Ninth Ward aldermanic post, and Richard O. Kennedy, 119 S. Lake St., alderman candidate in Neenah's Seventh Ward.

Donaldson, an industrial engineer; Kennedy, a paper company service supervisor, all have no previous public office experience.

The only other Neenah resident to have both taken out and filed nomination papers for an aldermanic post is Aaron Dix, incumbent Fifth Ward alderman.

Ninth Ward

Latest person to take out papers for an alderman's post is Norman R. Frederick, 1035 Sande St., who is seeking the post in the city's Ninth Ward.

Five of Neenah's ten aldermanic terms are due to expire this year: Warren Sander, First Ward; Peter Fara, Third Ward; Dix, Fifth Ward; Kenneth Parman, Seventh Ward, and Richard Jones, Ninth Ward. Of these, only Fara and Dix have taken out papers; Jones has indicated he will not seek re-election.

Other aldermanic candidates to date are as follows: Paul T. Mueller, First Ward, Robert H. Larson, Cornelius Murphy and Gilbert H. Krueger, Fifth Ward; Eugene R. Heimerman, Seventh Ward; and Florian H. Jahas, Ninth Ward.

Supervisors

Of the five Neenah supervisors on the Winnebago County Board due to expire this year, all now have single candidates.

YMCA Capital Fund Campaign Hits $947,760

Pattern Gifts Report Another $100,000, Advance $12,000

The YMCA Capital fund campaign jumped to $947,760 of its $1,500,000 goal at the weekly report meeting Thursday at the YMCA. Pattern Gifts reported additional gifts totalling $100,000 and advance gifts added another $12,000 to its total. The campaign has been running for eight weeks and solicitation has been active for four weeks.

In summing up activities thus far, Bruce Purdy said, "We are well on our way to a successful campaign. It should not be too long before all the people of Appleton will be enjoying the benefits of a completely new family-type YMCA. Big business has responded admirably and are showing they mean to do their part for the people of Appleton. It still looking forward to extensive use remains to be seen to what extent of the new building. Al Johnson, general secretary of the YMCA recently explained to a group that the new concept of the 'Y' would be with emphasis on family type programs, where mother and dad can participate in YMCA functions along with their children. General solicitation of the residential areas of the city is to start Jan. 24.

Neenah residents were by Charles L. Soukup, a chemical engineer who lives at 245 Washington Ave., and John Heigl, incumbent from Neenah's Seventh Ward, also filed his papers late this morning.

Others who have taken out papers for supervisorships include Alvin A. Stafford, Third Ward incumbent; Norbert Redlin, Fifth Ward incumbent, and Clarence Loehning, Tenth Ward incumbent. Russell Carpenter, supervisor incumbent in Neenah's Eighth Ward, has indicated he will not seek re-election.

Three Neenah School District board of education membership are also up for election this year. They include the terms of Frank X. Hochholzer, Mrs. Alice B. Moore and Mrs. Verna Gallmeier. The three have all taken out nomination papers, and Hochholzer has also filed his.

Two Aldermen Seek Re-Election

KAUKAUNA — Two more aldermanic candidates took out papers from reelection at the city clerk's office Wednesday, neither yet having competition.

Arnold Vander Loop, 225 Maria St., a machinist at Giddings and Lewis Machine Tool Company prior to his recent retirement, will be seeking his fifth term as First ward alderman.

William Rogers, 1317 Hillcrest Drive, employee of the Wisconsin Gas Company, is seeking his second term as Fifth ward alderman. Rogers also is Second District Assemblyman.

Neenah-Menasha Officials Receive 'Progress Design'

Advantages of Improvement Plan Presented During Public Meeting

NEENAH — The advantages of a capital improvements budget in the next 25 years as the community expands. Such a city planning were presented to aldermen, plans commission members and city officials at a Neenah and Menasha Thursday afternoon at Whiting Deanehouse by a group of citizens interested in a "Design for Progress" for Neenah-Menasha. The Twin City News-Record was host to the group.

Richard Galloway presided at the meeting and information was presented by Kenneth L. Davis, John Sensenbrenner, Don Buchta, Don Metz, Donald Hill, William Giese and Gavin Young. The latter presented endorsements of the proposed program by the Chamber of Commerce of Neenah-Menasha, the Junior Chamber of Commerce, the League of Women Voters and the Optimist Club.

Joint Action

The need for joint action by the two communities on such items as fire protection and municipal buildings. Don Metz pointed out that a joint fire station for the Island area would result in decreased fire insurance rates for both communities. He also suggested the possibility of a joint city hall or municipal building for the two communities on the Island pointing out that both communities have expressed the need for new facilities. He indicated that such a project would result in reduced expenditures for both cities.

Davis outlined the anticipated future growth of the community and the need for capital improvements. The capital improvements are financed partly through bond issues and partly from general revenues with only a small part on short term notes and revenue bonds.

Galloway pointed out the importance of having an informed citizenry interested in the growth of the community and its accompanying problems.

Gifts of $6,550 Made by Neenah Resident, Firm

NEENAH — Gifts totalling $6,550 in securities and currency have been accepted by the University of Wisconsin Board of Regents from a Neenah woman and machine company to go forward the "Justice James C. Kerwin Scholarships."

Mrs. C. B. Clark, 617 E. Wisconsin Ave., Neenah gave the university securities valued at approximately $5,350 in market value.

The J. W. Hewitt Machine Co., Inc., Neenah, gave a gift of $1,200. The gifts were among $1,688,758.38 accepted today by the board of regents. The money will go toward scholarships to male undergraduate students at the university. Both gifts were continuations of previous similar gifts.

Masonic Meeting

MENASHA — John A. Bryan Lodge No. 98, F & AM, will hold a regular meeting at 7 p.m. Monday at Menasha Masonic Temple.

'Copters, Liferrafts Rushed to Rescue of Moroccans in Flood

SIDI SLIMANE, Morocco (AP) — American helicopters and Moroccan teams on rubber liferafts raced against flood waters today to evacuate thousands of farmers and villagers stranded in one of the worst deluges to hit Morocco in 40 years.

An estimated 40,000 persons were routed from 1,000 square miles of central Morocco flooded by torrential rains that began a week ago. Authorities said more than 20 persons died.

The U.S. European Military Command has dispatched 10 jeeps and 10 trucks to transport personnel to the stricken areas. It planned to send another five jeeps today.

The U.S. 16th Air Force Command in Madrid appealed to bomber units in the United States which fly regularly to its bases in Morocco and Spain to donate food and clothing.

To Your Good Health

Amount of Fresh Air Depends Upon Person

BY JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Mrs. A. M. W. asks my opinion on four questions over which she has had arguments, so I'll answer them point by point:

"A I I my life I've slept with plenty of fresh air and I hate for bedroom windows to be closed. My father-in-law would never dream of opening a window. He sleeps with the house closed up tight. He burns coal in the furnace. Isn't this dangerous?"

A. The amount of fresh air is a matter of personal preference, within limits. There's no objection to leaving windows closed if you still have reasonable ventilation. Leave inner doors open. Let air circulate through the rooms. Almost all houses have cracks and crevices through which fresh air seeps.

The house that is sealed with storm windows and doors some times is too tight, and hence dangerous. You must let some fresh air in but it doesn't have to be through a wide open window.

Flourish ventilators are fine. Whatever the fuel, unless the chimney and furnace are in good condition, the danger of carbon monoxide is present.

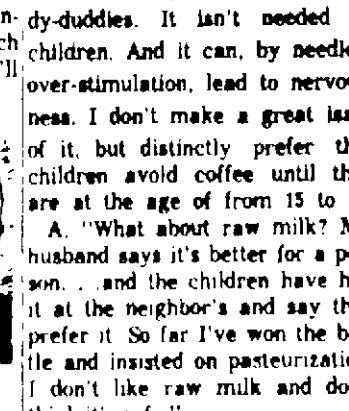

"My 15-year-old son has friends who just take off their clothes and go to bed in their types of lupus erythematosus shorts. Is this healthful?" He thinks I'm an awful old fuddy-duddy because I make him change to pajamas.

A. Again this is a matter of preference. We change clothes and let them air, because it helps keep us from being musty. Healthwise, changing is of great importance except in special cases.

Drinking Coffee

its caffeine is good for us old fuddy-duddies. It isn't needed by children. And it can, by needless over-stimulation, lead to nervousness. I don't make a great issue of it, but distinctly prefer that children avoid coffee until they are at the age of from 15 to 20.

A. "What about raw milk? My husband says it's better for a person, and the children have had it at the neighbor's and say they prefer it. So far I've won the battle and insisted on pasteurization. I don't like raw milk and don't think it's safe."

A. Raw milk isn't better for you. Nutritionally it is indistinguishable from pasteurized milk. As to taste, I can't detect any difference.

But as to safety — well, we started pasteurization because you still have reasonable ventilation. Leave inner doors open. Let air circulate through the rooms. Almost all houses have cracks and crevices through which fresh air seeps.

The house that is sealed with storm windows and doors some times is too tight, and hence dangerous. You must let some fresh air in but it doesn't have to be through a wide open window.

Flourish ventilators are fine. Whatever the fuel, unless the chimney and furnace are in good condition, the danger of carbon monoxide is present.

"My 15-year-old son has friends who just take off their clothes and go to bed in their types of lupus erythematosus shorts. Is this healthful?" He thinks I'm an awful old fuddy-duddy because I make him change to pajamas.

A. Again this is a matter of preference. We change clothes and let them air, because it helps keep us from being musty. Healthwise, changing is of great importance except in special cases.

Drinking Coffee

Counterattack Must be Policy in War With Communism, Editor Says

Conservative Wants to Return to 'Good Old Fashioned Isolationism'

DE PERE — "Not containment, not containment but counter-attack" must be the policy of the United States and Western Europe in the war against communism if we are to win, Frank Meyer, senior editor of the conservative National Review, told an audience at St. Norbert College last night.

But a "strange air of unreality" pervades most of what is said by public opinion media and done by government officials, he said. This comes from an inability or refusal to face the reality of the real nature of communism. The result, Meyer said, has been a "steady and continual retreat of the United States and Western Europe before communism" since World War II.

Most Americans, unused to deep spiritual and philosophic thought, do not comprehend that the Communist works on a simple set of ideas. His total aim is the triumph of communism all over the world and he conceives everything that helps that victory as good and anything that opposes it as evil. "Communism is a secular, materialistic, messianic, quasi-religious" philosophy with the central demand that the world come under its control as soon as possible with any means whatsoever as long as they work.

Two Periods
In general Meyer said the Communist drive can be divided into two periods. The first, from 1917 until about the end of World War II, was defensive. But since the end of World War II the strategy has become offensive.

While the first defensive phase employed offensive tactics, Meyer said, the current phase uses smooth, masking tactics, as the Communists realize that the only thing that can interfere with their triumph is an understanding of communism in the West and a consolidation of will to oppose it.

Co-existence is totally alien to everything they really believe, Meyer said, but they feel it is essential right now. Through co-existence they hope to influence public opinion in the United States.

Our first problem then is to understand communism and nothing should stand in the way of our conducting a war that has been pushed upon us, he said. This does not mean immediate nuclear or conflict, Meyer said, rather the only way to prevent such a war is to oppose communism at its weak points. Every time we take a strong stand they retreat. The West faces its most demanding crisis in history, Meyer said, with the stark alternatives victory or defeat.

Although the enemy is devoted to his aim, Meyer feels that we have in our heritage a far greater strength and we have the physical power. We have lacked certainty in the right as God gives us to see the right. We must impress this upon the leadership or change the leadership, he said.

Meyer proposed an immediate invasion of Cuba and the removal of the Castro regime.

He denied this was abandoning moral principles and said we were morally justified in waging a war that is being waged against us.

Meyer suggested giving an ultimatum to Russia to tear down the Berlin Wall or incur an air and sea blockade of the Soviet Empire. He also proposed that the money being spent on foreign aid be sent to the satellite countries in Eastern Europe to build up the undergrounds and otherwise help prepare them for revolt.

He opposed world government as evil and a dangerous concentration of power as well as an impossibility but he recognized the United Nations as a suitable place for diplomatic meetings and other international relations. However, he said, we should stop financing the U.N. in the Congo and leave Tshombe to his own salvation with Belgian help if they wish.

In the Congo Meyer said "we won a great victory over ourselves—like the great victory we won when we helped Castro over Batista."

Meyer emphasized that he didn't think the United States should run the world. "I just want to destroy communism and get back to good old fashioned American isolationism," he said.

He did not feel our State Department was controlled by Communists and suggested that the best way to fight any possible Communists in government is to oppose policies. Large segments of the press, radio and TV lie about world affairs, he said, because of a lack of understanding.

Stock Market Moves Lower

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market headed lower early this afternoon in moderate trading.

Key stocks declined from fractions to about a point.

It was the sharpest downward move of the week which included one vigorous rally and other days in which profit-taking on the big post-October advance was resisted stubbornly.

Brokers felt that some kind of genuine correction was only normal after the big rise. Some oils took losses, along with steels, motors, rails and other recent leaders.

Aerospace issues picked up a bit. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off .2 at 251.2 with industrials off .2, rails off .4, and utilities unchanged.

Chrysler, recently the outstanding gainer in its group, fell more than a point. Ford and General Motors lost fractions.

Phillips Petroleum and Amstar were down about a point each. Great A&P continued in demand following declaration of a 50-cent extra dividend. The stock was up about 2.

Boeing and Douglas Aircraft rose nearly a point each.

Appleton Woman, 39, Pleads Guilty to Conduct Charges

An Appleton woman whom police said locked herself in a room and threatened to shoot herself late Wednesday night, pleaded guilty to disorderly conduct when she appeared Thursday in Outagamie County Court, Branch 2.

County Judge Gustave Keller ordered Mrs. Mary Humphries, 39, 1006 E. North St., committed to the Central State Hospital for an examination when she returned for sentencing today.

Police were called to Mrs. Humphries' home late Wednesday night by her daughter who said her mother had locked herself in her bedroom.

State Democratic Deputy Chairman Cites Party Aims

Fostering interest in state and national government should be the main aim of our party, said James Buckley, deputy chairman of the Wisconsin Democratic Party to the Outagamie County chapter at the courthouse annex Thursday night.

Buckley said the Democratic Party has grown at an unbelievably fast rate during recent years. He said in 1961, the party made $21,000 at a fund-raising dinner at which President Kennedy spoke. At the governor's inaugural dinner Monday, the party made $23,000, he said.

In 1967, the state party had one full-time, paid officer. Now there is a staff of five, he said.

Buckley said before the Democratic Party can claim the majority, it must have more than two senators and a governor. He said it also must have a majority in the legislature and elect more officials on the county level.

No Reassessment Seen for Appleton

"$125,000 to have the work done," Mitchell said.

Asked for an opinion on the resolution, Pierre told the committee the question concerned policy which came under the jurisdiction of the common council.

"But I will say, gentlemen, that I have plenty of samples in my office," Pierre commented.

The three ways in which a reassessment could come about in Appleton, according to committee discussion, would be to hold a referendum on the matter, have residents petition for one, or the common council authorize such a project. It was the feeling of the committee there is no need for such action in Appleton.

"There are always bound to be some inequities," Tews commented, and he indicated they were few in number. At the last board of review session there were fewer than 10 objections to property assessments and only two readjustments made.

Ald. Edward Krueger (11th) expressed his opinion that "a reassessment would be a waste of money." He indicated his satisfaction with the present assessment valuations.

"I think we would have to have serious inequities to warrant a sampling reassessment," opined Ald. Fred Ziemann (6th).

"Just to have a reassessment to promote a capital improvements would be a very serious mistake," Ziemann warned.

Limit Expenditures
However, Ziemann did say it was time the city have a capital improvement program and realize the limit to public expenditures is coming.

Pierre told the committee, "The way you have been talking here tonight is sound judgment." After the meeting, Pierre met informally with committee members and explained assessment procedures and formulas.

In addition to aldermen on the committee, Kenneth Loos, (3rd), Clifford Rader (16th) and Derald H. Ahrens (2nd) attended the finance committee meeting, along with City Treasurer Ray Fuestein and three Appleton real estate men.

A 20-year record of the City of Appleton's assessed valuation totals:

Ask Permission To Connect to Sewer System

An Appleton real estate agent has asked the city of Appleton for permission to connect a Town of Menasha property to the city's sewer system.

Joseph H. Doerfler, 1302 Oakcrest Court, made the request in a letter to Appleton Mayor Clarence Mitchell.

Doerfler said the property is located south of Foster Street, east of the Valley Fair shopping center. He indicated that a 12-family apartment house would be constructed there.

Doerfler says he owns a small triangle of land inside the city limits and that there is a sewer connection on the property now.

"Sanitary sewers will be installed in 1964 or 1965 by the town sanitary district. As soon as the sewer is available, we would agree to dig up and plug the city sewer at the east lot line," Doerfler said.

The matter will be referred to the street and sanitation committee of the common council.

Menasha Utilities Asks Exemption in Clearance Rule on Rail, Building

MENASHA — The City of Menasha, as an electric public utility, has filed an application with the Wisconsin Public Service Commission for exemption of regulations requiring a standard clearance between buildings and railroad tracks.

The proposed addition to the existing power plant is less than the statutory clearance of the coal track serving the plant operated by the Soo Line Railroad Company. The Chicago and North Western Railway Company also has a track nearby.

A public hearing will be held at 2 p.m. Jan. 21 in room 606 of the State Office Building, Madison.

Hearing Set For Suspect

Man Charged With Burglary, Forgery By Appleton Police

A preliminary hearing scheduled today for Tommie Joe Beasley, 29, of Appleton, who has been charged with forgery of an "Angel Sanchez" check Dec. 7 at the Red Owl store in Appleton has been rescheduled for Friday, Jan. 18.

Dist. Atty. Nick F. Schaefer requested the change today. Beasley has three other preliminaries scheduled for Jan. 18, and Schaefer requested that the hearings be combined.

Preliminary hearings for a former Illinois resident charged with three burglaries in Appleton and a second count of forgery have been set for Friday, Jan. 18, by Outagamie County Judge Gustave Keller.

Tommie Joe Beasley, 29, 1016 N. Union St., requested the hearings after he was charged Thursday by Appleton police with break-ins at the Appleton Manufacturing Co., Riley's Fine Furniture Store, and the Olson Transportation Co. in December.

Beasley also requested a preliminary hearing on a charge of forgery of an "Angel Sanchez" check which was cashed at Dorn's Super Market Dec. 7.

Judge Keller ordered Beasley held on $10,000 bond on the burglary counts and an additional $5,000 bond on the forgery charge. The man is being held in the Outagamie County jail on a $10,000 bond for another count of forgery of an "Angel Sanchez" check which was cashed at the Red Owl store in Appleton Dec. 7.

He has requested a preliminary hearing on that charge and the hearing is scheduled for this afternoon in Outagamie County Court, Branch 2.

The checks have been drawn on the account of the defunct Neenah firm, the Earl and Benjamin Advertising Service and were made out by a check writer.

Smoke Discovered

Firemen were called to the YMCA building about 10:53 a. m. today when smoke from a stoker backed up into the building. The smoke was caused when the coal hopper ran out of coal, firemen said.

Course coordinator Herbert R. Pangel, appraiser, secretary and director of the Twin City Savings and Loan Association, Neenah, said.

Course instructor is Carlton F. Williams, city assessor and building inspector, Neenah.

List 31 Exhibits For Air Services

Government Report Given to All Cities Involved in CAB Hearing

Information exhibits of the U. S. Bureau of Economic Regulation were received today by all municipalities involved in the Civil Aeronautics Board regional airline stop hearings. The exhibits deal with North Central Airlines' area service investigations, but give no figures for 1962, the year whose practically all existing traffic records were broken at the Outagamie County Airport.

The report lists 31 exhibits. Thirteen of the exhibits deal with traffic and departure data by the year for each of the municipalities involved in the hearings. The next 13 exhibits deal with interstation traffic flow, or the originating airport and destinations for each of the 13 airports.

Other exhibits discuss DC-3 and Convair operating expenses, the relationship of tons of traffic to costs at various North Central stations, and the relationship of expenses to revenue miles on North Central flights.

Cities Show

The municipalities involved in the regional airline stop hearings, which will be started soon by the CAB include Appleton, Ashland, Clintonville, Green Bay, Ironwood, La Crosse, Land O'Lakes, Marshfield, Oshkosh, Rhinelander, Wausau, Winona, Minn., and Wisconsin Rapids-Stevens Point.

The traffic and departure data listed in the exhibits is a review of the monthly traffic figures since September of 1962 which are released monthly by each North Central airport.

Other Officers Picked At January Meeting On Thursday Evening

George A. Howden, 28 River Drive, has been elected president of the Appleton Board of Vocational and Adult Education. He succeeds Richard W. Mahony Sr., 1616 Carver Lane, who was not a candidate for re-election. Mahony remains on the board.

Named as vice president was William A. McFarlane, 1821 N. Superior St. Harold O. Schroeder, 1703 W. Highland Ave., was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

Officers were elected at the board's January meeting Thursday.

Discuss Report
Board members discussed a report on possible slippage of the retaining wall on vocational school property presented by acting director of public works Henry Crowe.

Board members approved purchase of drafting equipment and overhead projectors. Half the cost will be paid for with federal funds under the National Defense Education Act.

Letters were read from Appleton labor unions asking for additional classes for shop stewards. Vocational school director Carl Bertram indicated that more classes would be offered. Fees would probably be lower than the $8 charged for the first classes.

Guidance Group Ready To be Formed

OSHKOSH — A guidance association covering an approximate six-county area around the Fox Valley will be formed within the next ten days, according to Dr. Gordon Drake, president - elect of the Wisconsin Personnel and Guidance Association.

The Fox Valley area association will be one of nine regional guidance associations in the state under the WPGA.

A survey of guidance services and facilities in high schools of the greater Fox Valley area is now being completed by Dr. Drake and Dr. William Munns, coordinator of counseling at Oshkosh State College.

Dr. Drake said the survey has "revealed a tremendous interest in guidance as demonstrated by extensive remodeling by school districts whereby three and four room guidance offices and browsing areas for display of guidance and related materials are being provided.

The Fox Valley area group would be for high school, college and industrial guidance personnel. Dr. Drake will be the keynote speaker at the spring conference of the Central Wisconsin Guidance Association March 1 at Wausau.

Chicago Man Pleads Guilty of Drunkenness

A 46-year-old Chicago man, Marvin E. Dickinson, whom Appleton police said was found clinging to a city parking meter about 7:30 p.m. Wednesday was fined $35 or 25 days in jail after he pleaded guilty to drunkenness.

He appeared Thursday in Outagamie County Court, Branch 2. He said he was attempting to hitchhike back to Chicago after visiting relatives in Neenah.

Long-Play Records Big, Competitive Business

Enoch Light Successful the Hard Way, Millionaire After Arduous Struggle

BY RAL BOTTLE
NEW YORK (AP)—Some 12,000 new long-playing phonograph recordings are turned out each year in America.
"But only about 100 make any real money," said Enoch Light, the musical millionaire.
Light is managing director of one of 4,000 firms fighting in an overcrowded field for the privilege of reaching the American ear—and the American pocketbook.

Sprightly Career

A placid-looking, pipe-smoking man of middle age, Light has led a spectacular roller-coaster career in a business in which the unofficial slogan is: "Hold on to your hat at all times."

At 19 he left college to become the pit conductor for a Broadway show in 1908.
By 1940 he had become known as the "Ambassador of Jazz" in Europe, and he was leader of one of the big bands.

Then he was involved in an automobile accident that laid him up for a year and a half.

"When I finally recovered I found that the parade had passed me by. The heyday of the big bands was drawing to a close, and I realized I had to try something new."

Record Filed

Enoch entered the recording field and learned the business from the ground up.

There followed 10 lean, arduous years, then in 1954 Light founded his own firm, and in 1956 sold it for more than $1 million to ABC-Paramount, which retained him as directing head.

"It's all pretty crazy, isn't it?" he asked quietly, puffing on his pipe.

After my accident came the desperate days—week after week when I earned nothing. From the time I was 35 until I was 44 I was in danger of starving.

"Then, in another five years or so, I was a millionaire. It is crazy!"

Struggle Worth While

Light now feels his years of ordeal were well worth all the personal hardship he endured.

"They taught me to work hard and to respect work," he said.
"Success isn't a matter of being lucky or clever. It's a matter of worry, integrity, responsibility and doing your very best. It sounds corny, but it's true."

"The only secret lies in believing in what you are trying to do, and then putting more time and effort into doing it than the other fellow does."

writer who created "The Lodger" among others, is the vague basis for tonight's Alfred Hitchcock Hour. But there have been many changes in it. As it emerges here, "What Really Happened" is merely a device for some actors to play the same part in two different ways. Anne Francis is accused of killing her rich husband. In her trial, her vindictive mother-in-law (Gladys Cooper) gives one version of Miss Francis' quarrel with her husband and meeting with an old boy friend, while Miss Francis gives another picture of the same scenes. Ruth Roman plays Miss Francis' friend who holds the key to the crime.

10:30-12 (Channel 4-5) — Tonight's guests are Sandy Dennis, Michael Karmoyan and Errol Garner. (Color)

Diary of Auto Trips Will Provide Interesting Hobby

BY CAPPY DICK

Today's fun - project is a diary in which to keep a record of every automobile trip you take. It will help you to be more observant, to see things as you travel. You'll enjoy each trip more, and you will add to your knowledge of American history and have fun learning.

Start with an ordinary notebook (Figure 2). On the cover print a title, "Car Trips I Have Taken." Attach a pencil to the notebook because a pencil can be the most absent object in the whole world. Put the notebook in the glove compartment of the car (Figure 1) where it will be handy. Between trips, keep it in your room so you can look over the record any time you want.
Rule the pages of the notebook as in Figure 2. Bead the first column "Started From." In that column print the name of the city where the trip began, also print the date. The next column is headed "Destination." There print the name of the place you are going. The next column is headed "Cities." List the cities you pass through, but not necessarily all the small towns and villages. The final column is headed "Things of Interest I Saw." Here you will enter everything of interest to you — Gettysburg, the George Washington Bridge, the Empire State Building, etc. List everything that makes a big impression on you.

Maintain this record book for several years, including even short trips. Later, you'll have much fun reading it. (Copyright 1963)

Student Should Have Goal in Mind Before Starting College Education

BY LESLIE J. NASON, ED. D.

Professor of Education, University of Southern California

Dear Dr. Nason:

Our son, age 15, entered his senior year in high school this September. He made a B average in his work during his junior year. He has won letters in golf, baseball, and basketball.

But to date he has no inclination or aptitude for any vocation.

Would it be better for him to work during the year following

When the names Lawrence and Ripon are mentioned in the same breath, the word rivalry becomes synonymous.

This pair of Midwest Conference and state rivals will clash on the basketball court for the 106th time at 7:30 p.m. Saturday at Alexander gym.

In addition to the prestige a victory will bring, both teams will be seeking to snap a 2-game conference losing streak. Each squad has two losses. However, the Redmen have four victories compared to half that many for the Vikings.

Ripon opened the conference season with a flury, scoring four successive wins. However, the Redmen have been brought back to earth by losses in their last two games, including a narrow, 75-74 decision to Coe last week.

Win First Two

Lawrence also started the season with a bang, posting victories in its first two games before falling to Cornell and Beloit.

Coach Don Boya of the Vikes has been shuffling his cagers around to fill in the gaps left when two outstanding sophomores were declared ineligible for second-term play because of scholastic difficulties.

Mike Clair, an outstanding rebounder and playmaker, and Larry Gradman, reserve center, no longer are with the team. Their loss was felt deeply against Cornell last week when the Vikes were out-rebounded 50-26 and suffered a 68-50 setback.

To help bolster the squad.

Crow Injured In Drills for Pro Bowl Game

Lombardi Rates Sunday Contest A Toss-Up

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Hallback John David Crow didn't break any bones when he was injured in practice Thursday but it still isn't known whether he'll be able to play for the East Sunday in the Pro Bowl game.

Crow, who rushed for 751 yards and scored 102 points for the St. Louis Cardinals in 1962, was hurt when someone stepped on his ankle as he was cutting sharply.

"The x-rays were all negative," said East Coach Alie Sherman of the New York Giants. "There was nothing chipped. There is some swelling, though. It's mostly a case of how much it bothers Crow."

Whether Crow will play "may be a decision he won't make until noon Sunday," Sherman said.

Hallback Tim Brown of the Philadelphia Eagles is available as replacement.

No Prediction

West Coach Vince Lombardi, whose Green Bay Packers won their second straight National Football League title in 1962, said at the annual Pro Bowl luncheon Thursday that he rates the game a toss-up. Sherman had no prediction.

Fullback Jim Brown of the Cleveland Browns was given a Trophy naming him the outstanding back of the 1962 Pro Bowl game.

Brown said West quarterback Johnny Unitas "had a tremendous day and he would have won it (the award) except for a quick count in the votes."

The West won the game 31-30 on a last-second pass from Unitas to halfback Jon Arnett of the Los Angeles Rams.

Cadets Drop Zephyrs 2 Games Behind Leaders With 60-51 Decision

Payette Scores 24 Points to Spark Victory

BY GEORGE MANCOSKY
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

GREEN BAY—Premontre used a 24-point output by Ken Payette and superior rebounding to sink Menasha St. Mary, 60-51, here Thursday night.

The defeat, only the second in the last seven games, knocked the Zephyrs out of a second-place tie in Fox Valley Catholic Conference and dropped them two games off Xavier's pace.

The Menashans had a severe case of "9-pointitis." They trailed by nine at halftime, fell behind from 10 to 14-point margins in the second half, would start to come back but never were able to get the spread under that fatal nine points.

With Payette, Jim Gerhard and Dan Ferry providing the strength, the Cadets gave their Twin City foes a severe beating off the boards. The visitors had difficulty penetrating the Premontre zone and their own press didn't present much of a puzzle to the Cadet ball handlers.

Payette Stars

Payette, who has scored 51 points in the last two games, was particularly destructive in the first and third periods when he canned eight and 10 points, respectively. He made five of seven field goal attempts in that third segment, with several of his goals on tip-ins.

Gerhard and Mike Feller each added 12 points to the cause.

John Timm and Tom Johnson, the Zephyrs' two leading scorers, were held to a combined total of 11 points. Timm made seven, including three last-period baskets, while Johnson had to settle for a basket and two free throws.

The Zephyr scoring lead was carried by Jim Karisny who netted 18 points, and sophomore Tom Mortell with 14. Mortell was saddled with three fouls in the first.

Dawn Fraser Named Female Athlete of Year

Wilma Rudolph Places Second In Annual Poll

BY MURRAY ROSE
NEW YORK (AP)—Australia's Dawn Fraser, the first woman to break the one minute barrier for the 100-meter swim, today was named Female Athlete of the Year for 1962 in the annual year-end poll of the Associated Press.

At the ripe old age of 25, when most women swimmers long have quit competition for week-end dips, the tall Melbourne blonde scored her breakthrough by churning 110 yards in 59.9 seconds in the Australian trials for the British Empire Games last October.

This broke her own world record of 60 seconds for the 110 yards and 100 meters (109 yards, 1 foot, 1 inch).

Then in the race for the gold medal, in the Empire Games at Perth, the strapping champion lowered her mark for 110 yards and 100 meters to 59.6 seconds. The astonishing thing about her record breaking triumph and the capture of four gold medals in the Games, was that Dawn had just recovered from a siege of bronchitis. She is the first woman ever to win the Olympic 100 meter freestyle championship twice (1956, 1960) and she has designed on making it three straight at Tokyo in 1964.

Won in '60 and '61

No Total Rebuilding Needed Shula Plans Balanced Attack for Baltimore

BALTIMORE (AP)—Head Coach Don Shula plans a diversified offense for the Baltimore Colts in 1963. He says the team needs strengthening by positions, without a complete rebuilding job.

The 33-year-old former defensive coach for the Detroit Lions also told a press conference Thursday that he thinks five assistants are better than four, although he hasn't decided yet who his will be.

And Shula is considering having a player-coach on the National Football League squad which won league championships in 1958 and 1959, then went downhill.

Two-Year Contract

The Colts announced Tuesday they had given Shula a two-year contract, replacing Weeb Ewbank, 55, who coached the Colts for nine seasons including the two championships. The new coach played under Ewbank with the Colts for four seasons.

Asked if he would continue concentrating on passing, as the Colts have done, Shula said, "I would lean toward a balanced attack. I'd want to have a running game to go with the passing game. I plan on having a diversified offense."

Shula said he had already talked to all four Baltimore assistant coaches.

"That's something I want to get straightened out as quickly as possible," he added. "I would like to clear it up in a week. I think the best coaching setup would include offensive backfield, offensive line, defensive backfield, defensive line and receiver-end coaches. That would mean that I could supervise the entire squad without having to devote myself to one particular job."

Flew to Baltimore

Shula, who flew to Baltimore Wednesday and will return to Detroit Saturday, said the Baltimore team which had a 7-7 season in 1962 "has to be strengthened by positions."

On other subjects, Shula said: Quarterbacking the Quarterback—"I believe the quarterback should be the boss on the field. The coach has to be in charge all week during preparation."

Outside interests for players—"I think it's perfectly all right as long as it doesn't take away from their football. My job as coach, when it interferes is to get rid of the outside interests or get rid of them."

Coaching older, more experienced players—"It doesn't worry me in the least. When I took the Detroit job I was 30. Some of the guys playing there were a lot better football players than I ever was. I never had any problems. It was a real happy three years of coaching."

'P. K.' Picks Athletic Director In Another Cub Innovation

Col. Whitlow Given New Position

BY CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

CHICAGO (AP)—Along with three vice presidents, 12 coaches and a record of being in the National League's second division deep freeze since 1946, the managerless Chicago Cubs now have an athletic director.

President P. K. Wrigley, in another baseball innovation, has pinned that title on Robert V. Whitlow, 43, who stands 6 feet 5 inches, weighs 240 pounds and holds the rank of colonel in the U.S. Air Force.

Whitlow, who retires from the USAF Feb. 1, says that before the Cub offer his only objective was to "make the transition to Mr. The military career of the Fresno, Calif. native, who completed three years at UCLA, lettered as a right handed pitcher and was approached by the Detroit Tigers in 1939, includes:

A West point appointment and winning seven letters there in baseball, football and basketball; eight Nazi aircraft destroyed as a P-51 pilot in World War II, operations staff officer at several bases here and in Germany and France, and first athletic director of the Air Force Academy in Colorado Springs, serving from 1954 until 1957.

From 1960 until the present he has been director of operations of the Great Falls, Mont., air defense sector.

Winning Smile

Sporting a winning smile, the burly, well-tanned Whitlow was introduced to newsmen Thursday.

Here were some comments: Wrigley—"I had been looking for a man. My nephew (Wrigley 'Bud' Offield) knew the girl the colonel married and suggested he may be the man I wanted. With his military background he knows standardization and discipline—and as a man who learned to take orders, he is best qualified to give them."

"As a liaison between the front office and the field, he will take."

Probe Will Show Pro Football Is Clean, Says Willie Davis

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Willie Davis, the Green Bay Packer star defensive end, says there is no such thing as players lying down in a National Football League game to shave points.

"As far as I am concerned, this thing is nonexistent," Davis said Thursday. "I feel after this so-called investigation is over the public will feel more convinced than ever that pro football is clean."

The NFL is conducting an investigation of rumors of gambling on pro football games and possible connections of players with gamblers.

Davis, now working in Milwaukee, said that Packer Coach Vince Lombardi discourages any type of gambling—even card playing.

He added that the social life of players in Green Bay is well known and because Lombardi has set down specific rules, problems do not exist.

"Lombardi is the boss," Davis said. "You do it his way, or no way. And it's a good way."

Marquette to Meet Xavier On Saturday

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Marquette, holder of a 7-4 record takes on Xavier of Cincinnati in its final first semester basketball game at the Milwaukee arena Saturday night.

The Warriors will take a two week break for semester examinations after the Xavier game.

Xavier has a 6-7 record this season and has one of the best centers in the nation in 6-7 Bob Pelikington. He has averaged more than 15 rebounds a game and is the team's top scorer. Game time is 8:30 p.m.

Stormy Days Await State Legislature

Size of Budget Expected to be Source of Conflict Between Lawmakers, Governor Reynolds

MADISON (AP) — The peace and quiet that prevailed in the first two days of the 1963 legislative session was hardly a foreboding omen for the stormy days that lie ahead.

As the Senate and Assembly adjourned Thursday for the week-end, the seeds of future controversy were being planted quietly in the form of bills presented in both houses.

In the Assembly, 44 bills sponsored by the Legislative Council were offered in addition to 16 bills by individual members. Six joint resolutions also were passed.

U.S., Soviets Seek New Ways To Ban Tests

Newspaper Reports Red Overture Aimed At Ending Deadlock

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States and the Soviet Union are privately exploring new approaches to a nuclear test ban agreement, the Washington Post said today.

A new Soviet overture toward breaking the deadlock on international inspection of a test ban is understood to have been made to the United States, the Post said.

"The nature and details of this move have been kept secret, and it is believed to be still in an embryonic state," the Post said.

"Whether it will in fact produce something tangible or end up as another false start is still unknown."

Vasily V. Kuznetsov, Soviet deputy foreign minister, is in Washington talking with U.S. officials. One of the subjects he discussed with President Kennedy Wednesday was disarmament.

Kuznetsov, former chief Soviet negotiator in the Geneva disarmament negotiations, conferred with Secretary of State Dean Rusk Thursday.

Meets Today

He meets today with William C. Foster, director of the U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency, and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara.

However, U.S. spokesmen have made a point of specifying that Kuznetsov's talks here have been "casual."

Kuznetsov just completed more than two months of Cuban crisis negotiations in New York and was invited to Washington for a round of conferences.

The Post, in a story by Murray Marder and Howard Summers, noted that Semyon K. Tsarapkin, chief Soviet negotiator in the Geneva test ban talks arrived in New York Wednesday night.

"It is believed," the Post said, "that Tsarapkin will have discussions there, and possibly in Washington later, about a new approach to the American-Soviet deadlock on test ban inspection."

Anti-Castro Forces to be Reorganized

Leader Says Second Thrust Will be Made Against Cuba

BY DOM BONAFIDE
Chicago Daily News Service
MIAMI — Reorganization of anti-Castro forces — in and out of Cuba — is in the works as a prelude to a new military campaign against Fidel Castro, the civilian commander of the liberated invasion brigade reports.

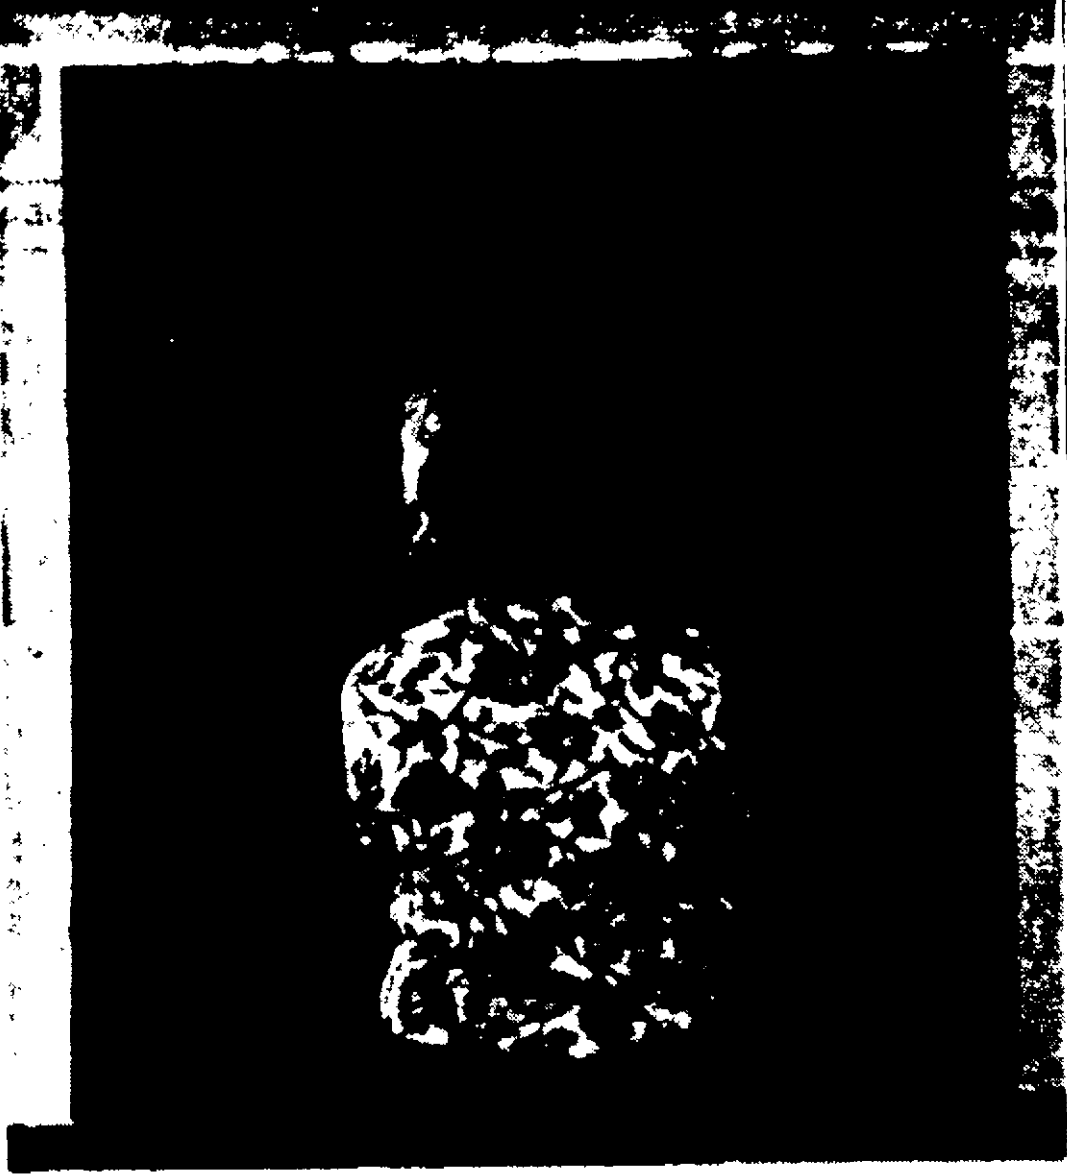

Manuel Artume, dark-eyed, intense exile leader, who was among the 1,113 members of Brigade 2056 recently released from Castro's prisons, declared that "every effort will be taken to coordinate action" against Castro.

He said that new faces will emerge as leaders of the exile movement, the Cuban underground will be reorganized, and the brigade regrouped for a second thrust against Castro.

"Castro cannot be defeated by economic pressure alone," the 52-year-old Artume remarked. "We're convinced it must be done by military action — and sometime soon. The brigade cannot compromise with Castro."

He expressed confidence that the United States would support the military buildup.

"President Kennedy said it all in his Orange Bowl speech," said Artume. "He made it clear that he would give us back our flag in a free Cuba. We're satisfied with the speech. The President was conscious he was speaking for history."

East Berlin Waiting to Hear Nikita

BY CARL HARTMAN

BERLIN (AP)—East Berlin is being decked for the arrival of Premier Khrushchev and a week of limelight at the center of the world's political stage.

The occasion is the Congress of the Socialist Unity Party, as the East German Communists call themselves. It opens Tuesday.

Khrushchev officially is only the head of one of the "fraternal delegations" attending from foreign Communist parties. Officially the key figure is Walter Ulbricht, East Germany's Communist leader.

But everyone knows Khrushchev will be the star. The most eagerly awaited part of his performance will deal with the Soviet-Chinese conflict over world leadership of the Communist movement.

Streets Decorated

The future of West Berlin and Germany may take second place on the bill.

In the war-ravaged center of the city, covered by light snow, workmen are busy adorning streets and buildings.

The party headquarters, once Germany's central bank, is draped along its long facade with a new red banner. It bears one of the keynote slogans of the meeting—a translation of Abraham Lincoln's phrase "government of the people, by the people and for the people."

Khrushchev stopped off in Poland Thursday night for talks with the Polish Communist chief, Wladyslaw Gomułka, and Premier Jozef Cyrankiewicz. There was no fanfare for his visit. He went into seclusion with his Polish hosts at an unidentified resort about 75 miles northeast of Warsaw.

Democrat Pushes for Measuring System

BY JOHN BECKLER

WASHINGTON (AP)—Girls who measure 93-60-94 will be winning beauty contests if Rep. George P. Miller, D-Calif., has his way.

It's not that Miller prefers the more amply favored females. It's just that he'd like to see their curves measured by the metric system, and when you're dealing with centimeters, 93-60-94 is fine.

Miller, as chairman of the House Science and Astronautics Committee, is in a good position to help bring the metric system into use in the United States.

He introduced a bill Thursday to authorize a three-year study by the National Bureau of Standards to determine the impact of the nation of a switch to the metric system.

It would mean a vast retooling job for much of American industry.

It would mean buying meat by the kilogram, gasoline by the liter and dress material by the meter.

But it would also mean goodbye to a confusing, complicated and illogical bunch of weights and measures that hardly deserve being called a system.

U. S. Britain

Of the major Western countries only the United States and Britain still cling to an independent system of weights and measures. And Miller says a high-ranking British government official told him Britain would follow in a minute if the United States went metric.

The metric system has already crept into the United States to a surprising degree. The pharmaceutical industry has embraced it—note that those shots you get are measured in cubic centimeters.

The military has long measured its arms in millimeters, and many U.S. products sold both here and abroad carry a single label with both U.S. and metric measurements on them.

Most familiar of all is the U.S. Wis., was elected first vice president at the organization's meeting Thursday. Ray A. Niemitz of Milwaukee was named a vice president and Frederick J. A. Beyer of Indianapolis president.

Kennedy Thinks British Took Polaris Because of Long Life Expectancy

Move May Mean Soviets Won't Solve Undersea Menace for Years

BY ELTON C. FAY
WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy believes one reason Britain accepted the Polaris missile is because it "offers a hope of being an effective deterrent for a much longer period" than the abandoned Skybolt.

The President's views on the Skybolt controversy and the Anglo-American Nassau agreement are set forth in the partial transcript of remarks made by him on Dec. 31 at Palm Beach.

Reporters present at the interview were forbidden to quote what he said or disclose that he was the source. They were permitted only to attribute the President's remarks to the highest authority, unimpeachable sources, or Kennedy friends. The White House issued the partial transcript Thursday because of a dispute over what he had actually said.

Nassau Pact

Kennedy was asked about the agreement made with British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan at Nassau. Macmillan agreed to drop Britain's plan to use the bomber-launched Skybolt ballistic missile and to accept U.S. cooperation in building submarines for the Polaris missile, but Britain providing her own nuclear warheads.

Kennedy outlined in the interview the alternate proposals of Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, then said this: "I think the British selected the Polaris option first because of the technical problems associated with Skybolt and, secondly, because Polaris offers a hope of being an effective deterrent for a much longer period than Skybolt."

Here Kennedy appeared to be saying that the U.S. Navy's Polaris submarine-missile system will continue to be useful in posing a retaliatory threat for Russia for another 17 years. This would be a long time in this fast changing age of weaponry.

Among other things, it could suggest a belief that Russia won't solve completely the art of anti-submarine warfare through the 1970s.

Manned Bombers

Kennedy also said he found peculiar the statements of "those people who say we are trying to phase out the manned bombers and have an over-reliance on missiles."

To read that point of view, Kennedy said, one would think the Skybolt was a gravity bomb instead of actually being a missile intended for launching from a submarine to a range of 1,000 miles, but being almost going around a full circle to use Skybolt," the President said of this argument.

Federal Costs Up 49 Times Over 1916 Rate

President Believes
Big Deficit Means
More Prosperity

BY DAVID LAWRENCE — Taking a pad and pencil in hand and doing a little figuring, this correspondent finds that, in the time he has been writing a daily dispatch about national affairs from Washington, the annual expenditures of the Federal Government have multiplied 136 times.

Next year's spending, for instance, is to be $100 billion, whereas in 1916 it was only three-fourths of a billion.

It isn't, of course, the same dollar it used to be. Thus, in terms of the purchasing power of the 1916 dollar, the Federal spending today would be figured at $36 billion. So, on this basis, it has gone up 49 times since 1916. Yet the population of the United States is only twice what it was in that year.

Another way to look at it is in terms of gold. It would have cost only 36,000,000 ounces of gold in 1916 to get the equivalent of the Federal expenditures in that year. Today it costs 2,857,000,000 ounces of gold to equal the Federal expenditures of the coming year, or about 80 times what it cost in 1916.

There has been in the interim, to be sure, a revaluation of gold. In 1934, it went from $20.67 an ounce to $35 an ounce. It has stayed at that price ever since, though lately the gold producers abroad have been agitating to have the official price here raised by the United States government.

As expenses grow and deficits enlarge, the value of the monetary unit, expressed in terms of gold as well as goods, tends to go down. Adam Smith, the famous economist, in his remarkable book, "The Wealth of Nations," published in 1776, described the tendency of governments from the days of the republics of Greece and Rome to devalue the monetary unit and thereby cheat the people. In ancient Rome, the name of the "dollar" of those days was the "solidus." It survived for many generations, and it was a part of the French coinage system until a couple of decades ago, becoming known as the "sou." When it ceased to have any value whatsoever in recent years, there came into the world's vocabulary the expression: "not worth a sou."

Dollar Value Down
Since 1916, the dollar has gone down from 100 cents to 36 cents in purchasing power. If this decline continues over the next few decades, the dollar itself may be worth ten cents or less in comparison with preceding decades.

Two World Wars and the Korean War have, to be sure, sent the Federal budgets upward, but somehow, even when the wars are over, there is an inclination to keep up the high level of spending. Today, the "Cold War" is costing more money per year than

UW President Banquet Speaker For State Society

MADISON — Dr. Fred H. Harrington, president of the University of Wisconsin, will be the speaker at the Founders Day Banquet of the State Historical Society of Wisconsin here Jan. 28. An historian himself and ex officio curator of the society as university president, Harrington will speak on "The Future of the State Historical Society."

The banquet, annual event held just a "stand-pat" philosophy. The difference between those who advocate deficit spending and those who want to conserve the value of the monetary unit is that most of the former school of thought disregard the experience of people who have gone broke. They delude themselves into believing that a central government just can't go broke.

It's true governments never stop functioning and they never are formally adjudged bankrupt. But governments, instead, tamper with the currency and gradually devalue it, so that the dollar, for example, will buy less and less. The only way out then is to try to earn more dollars, or collect more dollars by higher and higher taxes, or stop spending more than is collected.

Devaluation has been found necessary by various governments in Europe and Latin America in recent years. This has brought temporary relief, but over a span of time the remedy wears out and the disease recurs. Only then are the lessons of experience really learned—at least for a while.

Appleton Teachers Attend Conference

Miss Annabelle Wolf, Appleton, president of the Wisconsin Personnel and Guidance Association, and Miss Frances Buffham, Roosevelt Junior High School, were on the program of the 12th annual Stout State College guidance conference at Menomonie, Thursday.

A total of 146 persons from 57 communities in five states are participating in the guidance conference as speakers, chairmen of meetings or general resource persons. Approximately 1,500 persons are expected to attend the conference, the largest one-day guidance conference in the country.

Dr. Ralph G. Iverson, Dean of Students at Stout, has been coordinator of the conference the last 11 years.

Lawrence Gets Two Grants for Total of $5,500

Lawrence College received two grants from national business firms this week—a $4,000 award from the DuPont Company and a $1,500 award from the Shell Companies Foundation.

The DuPont Company's grant is part of its annual program of aid to education. The DuPont support falls in several areas having to do with science. Lawrence's grant is for strengthening the teaching of science and related subjects.

As in past years, the colleges were chosen on their records of strength in chemical education. The grant to Lawrence specifies that $2,000 shall be used for chemistry teaching and $1,000 for other supporting courses. Other colleges in the Associated Colleges of the Midwest to receive the awards were Balliol, Can. Cornell, Grinnell and Knox.

100 Americans to Return From Cuba

Plane Bringing Medical Supplies To Take Them Back to Miami

HAVANA (AP) — One hundred Americans will return to the United States Sunday aboard an airplane bringing medical supplies to Cuba, a Swiss diplomat said today.

He said the plane was due to leave for Havana from Miami, Fla., today but that the flight was delayed to give the repatriates time to get ready for the trip.

The Americans have been living in Cuba and have expressed a desire to leave. They remained behind despite a general repatriation of Americans in Cuba some time ago.

A Pan American Airways DC6B already laden with 15,000 pounds of medicines, had been scheduled to take off today from Miami, but its departure was postponed until Sunday.

Pan American said the Red Cross, to which the flight was donated, requested the postponement. Spokesmen for the airline said they did not know the reason for the postponement.

In Washington the State Department refused to comment on the postponement and a Red Cross spokesman said he had been advised of the shift in dates but did not know why it had been done.

A DC6B seats more than 100 passengers.

Planes were afoot previously for a special flight to bring 250 Cuban-Americans to Miami, but that flight was canceled abruptly last week.

Also eager to leave Cuba are more than 20 Americans, imprisoned on various counterrevolutionary charges, and hundreds of relatives of the Bay of Pigs invasion prisoners who were ransomed for $53 million in badly needed American food and medicine.

The flight set up for Sunday may be the last air shipment of ransom installments to Cuba. An ocean cargo liner, the 490-foot SS Shirley Lykes, is scheduled to load 6,000 tons of ransom at Baltimore and then call at Port Everglades, north of Miami. There it will take on another 1,000 tons of food, pharmaceuticals, biologicals, vitamins and insecticides to hand over to Fidel Castro.

Brother Denied VA Aid; She Won't Pay Federal Taxes

CHICAGO (AP) — A stenographer says she hasn't paid her income taxes—an estimated $24,000—in 20 years because she believes the Veterans Administration has cheated her brother.

Miss Olga Hobeck, 57, yesterday disclosed in a letter to the Internal Revenue Service that she had evaded paying income taxes by claiming four dependents on her payroll deduction although she supports only herself and her brother.

Miss Hobeck, who said she never has filed a tax return, works for a Loop law firm for $90 a week. She said she doesn't have much money but she would be willing to pay her back taxes if her brother, Arthur, 50, could get compensation from the Veterans Administration.

Miss Hobeck said her brother suffered a nervous breakdown in the Army in 1941 and after five months service was honorably discharged as a schizophrenic, or split personality. He has been unable to work since.

The VA said Hobeck was discharged in August 1941, before the start of World War II, and therefore does not qualify for compensation.

The report will not be binding on either side, but the board hopes to crystallize the issues in order to encourage a settlement.

In Cleveland, strikes by Local 473 of the independent Teamsters Union and the Cleveland Newspaper Guild, AFL-CIO, against the city's two newspapers went into its seventh week today.

Not Under Arrest

ELISABETHVILLE, Katanga, the Congo (AP)—President Moise Tshombe of Katanga was back under surveillance in his palace Thursday night after making a peace tour to the Rhodesian border and calling on his disorganized troops not to resist U.N. forces.

U.N. officials said Tshombe no longer was under house arrest because he showed willingness to cooperate with the United Nations. But they said he will have to observe the nightly curfew imposed on Elisabethville on Dec. 30 after U.N. forces seized control of the provincial capital.

Not Under Restraint

A U.N. spokesman in New York said Tshombe will not be restrained otherwise unless he tries to incite Katangans against the United Nations or reneges his call for a scorched-earth policy.

Tshombe told newsmen in Elisabethville, on the border of Northern Rhodesia, that he made his tour Thursday "to stop bloodshed and prove my good intentions."

But he insisted at a news conference that every movement by U.N. troops in a new direction in his province must be negotiated beforehand. The British consulate in Elisabethville said Tshombe had given a guarantee only for the movement of U.N. troops to Sakania, where the railroad crosses the Rhodesian border 200 miles southeast of Elisabethville.

The U.N. command still was apprehensive about the situation in Katanga, the major industrial center 180 miles northwest of Elisabethville, where diehard followers of Tshombe were reported ready to blow up the copper and cobalt plants and a power dam if the U.N. tried to move in.

There was no indication yet what the U.N. command plans to do about Kolwezi. A report from Kikwe, just across the border in Northern Rhodesia, said Katanga Interior Minister Godfrid Mwaanga left Kolwezi for Katanga after conferring with Tshombe.

The U.N. column camped for the night in Mwaanga and planned to push on today to Sakania.

President Adds to His Role as World Leader

Cushing Makes Statement to Put End to Many Rumors

BOSTON (AP)—Richard Cardinal Cushing, Roman Catholic archbishop of Boston, has disclosed that he raised $1 million to help liberate Cuban invasion prisoners.

Cardinal Cushing released a statement Thursday, identifying himself as solely responsible for the collection of the $1 million. He said he made the statement because of the many rumors concerning the "mysterious donor."

The prelate also said he wanted to clarify reports that the gift had come from sources "with which I have no identification."

"It is appropriate and fitting for a Catholic prelate of the United States to have a part in the liberation of the Cuban fighters who love their country and the faith of their fathers," he said.

Ride Back of 45-Foot Whale For 3 Hours

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—Four marine biologists say they rode the back of a 45-foot-long finback whale for three hours off the coast of San Diego.

The biologists, wearing skin-diving equipment, said the whale had become entangled in a fish net and line and apparently was fatigued from towing them when they spotted it Tuesday.

Nicklin said he and his companions jumped on its back one at a time. They said they pulled its dorsal fin, looked it in the eye, swam alongside it and sat in the spray blown from its spout. They took pictures to prove it.

"He was so exhausted he couldn't swim away," said Nicklin. "When we first jumped on he rolled a little and ducked his head, but that was the only opposition."

Then, Nicklin said, they freed the whale from the net and fish line and he "gave a flip of the tail and really got up steam."

The last they saw of the whale it was headed out to sea.

Nicklin said the whale was probably young, because it was smooth and slimy. He said finbacks often grow to 70 feet and usually have barnacles.

Along with Nicklin, 35, were Alvin Santmyer, 35, William De Court and Frank Morejohn.

"It was quite an experience," said Santmyer. "It was a little eerie—out of science fiction—swimming around out there and him following us with his eyeballs."

3 Jurists Ready To Submit Report

NEW YORK (AP)—A fact-finding board of three jurists reports today on its inquiry into a printers' strike that has resulted in a blackout of New York's nine major newspapers for 35 days.

The fact-finding panel was set up last Sunday by federal, state and local officials.

Publishers are cooperating with the survey panel, but it has been boycotted by Bertram A. Powers, head of Local 6, International Typographical Union, AFL-CIO, pending a membership meeting Sunday. However, the board has been getting the union's side despite the absence of Powers.

At least eight commercial buildings, including a bank, were smashed and half the Spring Hill High School was demolished.

A unit of the Tennessee National Guard was called out to help law enforcement officers search for the injured, clear debris and guard against looting.

Rushed to this town of 850 were units of the Tennessee Highway Patrol, civil defense, the State Highway Department and linemen from telephone and power companies.

The only damage reported at the Tennessee Orphanage Home, a Church of Christ institution, was a tin roof blown from a barn, and uprooted trees. The orphanage is only 2,000 yards from the smashed business district.

Mayor R. B. Toome said he understood all the orphans slept through the violent storm.

Much of Business Area, Many Homes, 2 Churches Razed

SPRING HILL, Tenn. (AP)—A freakish winter tornado hit this middle Tennessee town early today, wrecked much of the business district, dozens of homes and destroyed two Negro churches. The twisted wreckage of an orphanage where 180 children slept. No serious injuries were reported.

At least eight commercial buildings, including a bank, were smashed and half the Spring Hill High School was demolished.

A unit of the Tennessee National Guard was called out to help law enforcement officers search for the injured, clear debris and guard against looting.

Rushed to this town of 850 were units of the Tennessee Highway Patrol, civil defense, the State Highway Department and linemen from telephone and power companies.

Copters, Liferrafts Rushed to Rescue of Moroccans in Flood

SIDI SLIMANE, Morocco (AP)—American helicopters and Moroccan teams on rubber liferafts raced against flood waters today to evacuate thousands of farmers and villagers stranded in one of the worst deluges to hit Morocco in 40 years.

An estimated 40,000 persons were routed from 1,000 square miles of central Morocco flooded by torrential rains that began a week ago. Authorities said more than 30 persons died.

The U.S. European Military Command has dispatched 30 planeloads of relief equipment and personnel to the stricken areas. It planned to send another five planeloads today.

The U.S. 33d Air Force Command in Madrid appealed to bomber units in the United States which fly regularly to its bases in Morocco and Spain to donate food and clothing.

Must Risk Frictions, He Asserts

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy has decided to assert a more vigorous and determined American leadership in world affairs even at the cost of creating major frictions with U.S. allies, especially in Europe.

The President's determination is clearly disclosed in a discussion he held with newsmen in Palm Beach last week, a partial text of which the White House made public Thursday night. As originally reported, the views could not be attributed directly to Kennedy.

What he said apparently represents the hardening of an attitude which has been developing within the administration for many months.

Frictions Inevitable

The fact that he said it, in response to a question, emphasizes his present conviction that the United States can get the results it wants on some important issues only by following what amounts to an independent policy.

Kennedy said he thought that "too often in the past we have defined our leadership as an attempt to be rather well regarded in all these countries."

"The fact is," he said, "you can't possibly carry out any policy without causing major frictions."

He said he thought the United States "ought to be more aware" of the fact that "we are going to incur, at intervals, people's displeasure."

As evidence, Kennedy noted that in dealing with the Congo situation the United States has been following a policy "somewhat different" from that of Great Britain and other countries in giving strong support to the United Nations in its effort to bring about unification of the divided African nation.

Secret Briefing

In the case of India and Pakistan, he said the United States has tried to reconcile the two countries because it believes this is essential to the defense of the Asian subcontinent, and both of them are "dissatisfied with us."

When he first expressed his views to newsmen at Palm Beach he was talking "for background."

This meant that reporters could report the views but could not say directly that the President had stated them at a background news conference.

As comments now on the record, they constitute probably the strongest assertion of the need for independent U.S. action on some occasions that a president has made since the United States began to build the present system of alliances 14 years ago.

2 More Die in State Traffic

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The deaths of two elderly motorists raised Wisconsin's 1963 highway toll to 14 today, compared with 24 on this date a year ago.

Michael Murphy, 65, of Dodgeville, died Thursday night at a Dodgeville hospital of injuries received Tuesday when his car collided with a truck at a highway intersection on the outskirts of the city.

Ralph Simoneau, 62, Milwaukee, died Thursday of injuries sustained Jan. 4 in a traffic accident in West Allis.

2 British Papers Quote Him

In Violation of Secrecy Rule

BY DOUGLAS B. CORNELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Washington institution of journalistic background briefings probably is dead so far as President Kennedy is concerned.

And probably there will be few real mourners around the White House and even fewer among those newsmen who would prefer to get the news out in the open in the first place.

These backgrounders have a set of rules under which the person doing the briefing may not be quoted by name or in direct quotes. Reporters must resort to paraphrase and to pinning what they learn on unimpeachable sources, or, as in the case of the President, "the highest authority."

British Quote President

Kennedy held a backgrounder at Palm Beach, Fla., on New Year's eve with 35 newsmen clustered around the living room of his vacation residence. The stories went out afterward, attributed to the highest authority or friends of the President.

But then, over the weekend, two British newspapers turned up with direct quotes from the briefing and identified Kennedy as the source. White House authorities said there was some breaching of the rules in the American press.

So Thursday the White House made public some of the quotations picked up in Britain. Among the major points in the interview:

Newsmen who attended the Palm Beach briefing, obeyed the rules and then saw Kennedy's words in print in British papers, kicked up a rumpus. Now word is circulating that Kennedy probably will have no more backgrounders.

His press secretary, Pierre Sal-

No Delay in Data on Bills

Old Rule Will be Ignored in Release To State's Press

MADISON (AP) — Newsmen covering the Wisconsin Assembly had their first brush with its new leadership Thursday and emerged with what they came for—news.

Cause of the ruckus was an old Assembly rule to which no one has paid attention for years. The rule, dating back to the time when records were kept in handwriting, provides that all bills and resolutions must go to the Committee on Revision before being formally introduced in the Assembly.

The Revisions Committee checks each bill to make sure that it is in proper shape. Then, usually the next legislative day, the bill is reported back to the Assembly, when it gets its first and second reading before being sent to its proper committee for study.

For many years, reporters have been given copies of the bills when they are offered in the Assembly and before the Revisions Committee gets them.

Military Planes Crash in Alaska, Kansas Areas

KODIAK, Alaska (AP)—A twin-engine Navy patrol plane carrying a crew of 12 crashed and burned as it approached for a landing Thursday night.

Five survivors were taken to a hospital at Kodiak Naval Air Station. They were reported in serious condition.

The plane, a P-3V, was approaching a landing strip at the Navy installation when it hit Womens Mountain, about 1,000 feet high, near the end of the runway.

A Navy spokesman said rain was falling. He said the pilot had not radioed the plane was in trouble.

WICHITA, Kan. (AP)—Two Air Force officers parachuted safely from low altitude but their plane commander was killed in the flaming crash of a B-47 jet bomber near Wichita Thursday night.

The body of Capt. P. L. Pudwill, 39, Detroit Lakes, Minn., was found strapped in his seat after the fire burned out.

List 31 Exhibits For Air Services

Government Report Given to All Cities Involved in CAB Hearing

Information exhibits of the U. S. Bureau of Economic Regulation were received today by all municipalities involved in the Civil Aeronautics Board regional airline stop hearings.

The exhibits deal with North

Central Airlines' area service investigations, but give no figures for 1962, the year when practically all existing traffic records were broken at the Outagamie County Airport.

List 31 Exhibits

The report lists 31 exhibits. Thirteen of the exhibits deal with traffic and departure data by the year for each of the municipalities involved in the hearings. The next 13 exhibits deal with inter-shipment traffic flow, or the originating airport and destinations for each of the 13 airports.

Other exhibits discuss DC-3 and Convair operating expenses, the relationship of tons of traffic to costs at various North Central stations, and the relationship of expenses to revenue miles on North Central flights.

Cities Show

The municipalities involved in the regional airline stop hearings, which will be started soon by the CAB include Appleton, Ashland, Clintonville, Green Bay, Ironwood, La Crosse, Land O'Lakes, Marshfield, Oshkosh, Rhinelander, Wausau, Winona, Minn., and Wisconsin Rapids-Stevens Point.

The traffic and departure data listed in the exhibits is a review of the monthly traffic figures since September of 1961 which are released monthly by each North Central airport.

Officers and directors of Appleton State Bank were re-elected at the annual meeting Tuesday. Officers are A. F. Zuehlke, chairman of the board; Gus A. Zuehlke, president; Lawrence F. Schreier, vice president and trust officer; Gilbert J. Relien and C. A. Hofspenger, vice presidents; Robert H. Zschaefer, cashier; and H. R. Taggart, assistant cashier.

Alvin R. Goltz was promoted from assistant cashier to assistant vice president. Charles Banker was elected assistant vice president and will continue as trust officer.

Gerald Depies and John Adrian are new assistant cashiers. Also re-elected were A. W. Lautenschlager, manager of the Shiocton branch; Milan R. Sousek, manager of the Hortonville branch; and Ronald G. Abbott, manager of the Fremont branch. All also are assistant cashiers.

Directors who were re-elected are A. F. Zuehlke, George A. Buth, Seymour Gmeiner, Herbert C. Holtz, C. A. Hofspenger, W. K. Miller, Walter H. Wieckert and Gus A. Zuehlke.

During 1962, the bank had a deposit increase of $3,600,000, one of the healthiest increases in its history. Total assets of the bank are $32,000,000, an increase of 14 per cent in 1962.

Directors re-elected aside from Bloomer and Grimm included Donald E. Bonk, Cornelius Leahy, George N. Salm and George R. Winkler.

Night School Starts Classes

Clintonville Program To Have Studies at Senior High School

CLINTONVILLE — The 1963 night school program will begin with the first classes the evening of Jan. 21 at the senior high school. Registration may be made in advance by telephone or on the evening of the first class at 6:45 p.m. Classes will run from 7 to 9 p.m.

Course offerings will depend on sufficient enrollment to warrant each class. Enrollment in some courses is limited.

Suggested courses this year are welding, drafting, woodworking, knitting, clothing, beginning calculus, typing and shorthand. German, ceramics, water color, electronics, upholstery, driver education, knitting, golfing and physical education.

Other courses will be offered if there is sufficient local interest.

These courses offer adults an opportunity of continuing their education and of pursuing hobby interests. This year marks the tenth year of successful night schools in Clintonville.

Committee Plans to Advertise Again for Surplus Foods Plan

WAUPACA — The county welfare committee Tuesday, on advice by Dist. Atty. Gerald K. Anderson, rejected two bids for the distribution of surplus food commodities.

The committee was advised to readvertise for bids for a contract to be let in March.

Theodore Thomas, New London, who had the previous contract, agreed to handle the distributions in January and February.

The committee indicated the first ad contained a technical error.

Black Creek Cagers

BLACK CREEK — The grade school game with Wrightstown has been rescheduled for Saturday. Seymour will play here Jan. 18, and Black Creek will visit Kimberly Jan. 25.

A Lunch Room and locker facilities have been added at Brillion Iron Works, Brillion, at a cost of $50,000. There are 325 lockers in the area plus vending machines and continuous music during the working day.

20,000 Per Cent Increase

Old Familiar One Cent Stamp Is Chilton's Hottest Salable Item

CHILTON — The hottest salable item in Chilton these days is the one-cent stamp.

Since Monday, when it required five cents to mail an ounce first class, there has been a steady parade of customers to the stamp

Business establishments with a buildup of envelopes metered at the old four cent rate are the principal consumers. It is necessary for them to add a one cent stamp to each envelope before it can be mailed. The rest are being used to make up the difference on pre-stamped envelopes and stocked four cent stamps.

The largest single request came from a postmaster from a neighboring city. His post office ran out of the Washington stamps and he picked up 2,000 from the Chilton Postoffice to tide him over until his order was filled.

Wever has reordered the issue and expects 20,000 to arrive soon. These are mainly to replenish the local supply since he expects the sales to taper off to normal soon.

WAUPACA — The annual meeting of the Waupaca Association of Commerce is scheduled at 7 p.m. Tuesday at the NaGreen Hotel, Weyauwega, G. H. Stordock, program chairman, announced.

The dinner meeting is for members of the association and their wives. Roman Koenings, superintendent of state forests and parks of the Wisconsin Conservation Department, will be speaker. Koenings is a former Waupaca County forester.

Stordock said Koenings will speak on the development of the proposed Wisconsin State Park at Hartman Creek, west of the Chain O'Lakes.

Two directors will be elected. The terms of Merlin Mangert and Werner Jensen will expire. Reports of officers and committee chairmen will be printed and distributed at the meeting.

New Facilities Completed at Brillion Plant

Locker, Shower And Lunch Rooms Open at Iron Works

BRILLION — A new locker room, shower room and lunch room for Brillion Iron Works employees has been completed by the company at a cost of about $50,000, and will be in use within two weeks. The room is 72 by 36 feet and was built above new guard quarters and health department completed by the company last spring.

The second floor addition includes 325 full-length lockers, wash basins, a shower room and drying room for 60 employees. Space also has been provided for vending machines in a room adjacent to the lunch room.

Modern Facilities

The floor is terrazzo tile. The drying room is lined with mirror, shelves and electrical outlets. Adequate heating and venting facilities have been provided, and eight speakers in the room furnish music during working hours.

The Brillion foundry started construction on the first floor guard quarters and health department late in 1961. The project was completed about five months later, and work was begun on the second floor shortly after. The company has 450 production and maintenance employees, although not all of them will require lockers at the plant.

New London High Math Curriculum Explained to Board

Department Head Presents Role Of 2-Track Program to Educators

NEW LONDON — The present curriculum and objectives of the mathematics department at Washington High School were set before the board of education by math department members at Wednesday night's board meeting. Everett Klinking, head of the department, said the school now has a two track program. One track is for college preparatory students and includes algebra 1, geometry, algebra 11, trigonometry and mathematical analysis. Track two is for students not planning to attend college and consists of an introductory algebra course and a study of consumer mathematics.

Assignment to the program, Klinking said, is made on the basis of aptitude tests, scholastic ability, previous marks in mathematics, pupil choice and former teacher recommendations. The department, he added, recommends all college preparatory students take at least three years of mathematics.

Middle of Road

We are taking what might be termed a middle of the road course by holding to some traditional, but introducing some contemporary courses of study, he said.

He told board members that emphasis is being placed on continuity by threading ideas and basic concepts through the whole plan of study. The program will be established to operate 24-hours a day if the cottage owners pay for the service.

Under Sheriff William Mork said he understands they plan to operate like a merchant's police department.

He said Chandler and Ronald Bebe, Stevens Point, propose to check the doors of the cottages and drive around the area. They will have no police powers, the undersheriff explained.

The sheriff's department is neither supporting nor opposing the plan. Mork said similar groups are operating in the cities with merchants paying for the service.

DE PERE — "Not coexistence, not containment, not counter-attack, must be the policy of the United States and Western Europe in the war against communism if we are to win, Frank Meyer, senior editor of the conservative National Review, told an audience at St. Norbert College last night.

Name 5 New Directors At First National Bank

Board Re-Elects Officers; Increased to $62,900,000 During Five New Directors Have Been Active in Five new directors were elected to the board of the First National Bank of Appleton at the annual meeting Tuesday.

They are Eugene F. Davis, president of Riverside Paper Corp., V. I. Minahan, president of the Post-Crescent, Walter D. Rugland, president of Aid Association for Lutherans, and William H. Zuehlke Jr., vice president and director of investments at Aid Association for Lutherans.

All officers and other directors were re-elected.

Davis was elected president of Riverside Paper Corp. in 1959. He began his employment with Riverside as a paper inspector in 1925, and a year later was placed in charge of the sample department.

Minahan has been active in civic affairs, is a past president of the Appleton Chamber of Commerce and served on the board of directors and as treasurer of the Appleton Memorial Hospital Association and on the YMCA board.

Rugland is a 1929 graduate of Luther College, Decorah, Iowa, and was awarded an honorary doctor of laws degree there in 1961. He holds an M. S. from the University of Iowa.

Sharp joined the sales department of Kimberly-Clark Corp. in 1944 after 14 years of experience in various manufacturing capacities at a number of corporate locations. He was named assistant to the vice president in charge of sales and general sales manager in 1950. In 1952, he was elected vice president in charge of sales.

He became a director of Kimberly-Clark Corp. and Coosa River Newsprint Co. (now a division of K-C) in 1955. He is presently chairman of the magazine publishers association of the Printing Paper Manufacturers Association. He is a graduate of Cornell University and the University of Idaho with an M. S. in forestry.

William H. Zuehlke Jr. joined the Aid Association for Lutherans home office staff in 1946 as assistant treasurer, was named investment vice president in 1952 and was promoted to his present position in 1960.

A graduate of Lawrence College, he formerly was associated with Harris, Hall and Co., Chicago. He currently is serving as chairman of the Fraternal Valuation of Securities Committee. He is a director of the Appleton Rotary Club and a member of the American Institute of Management.

Others Re-Elected Re-elected to the First National Bank's board of directors were Harold C. Adams, William E. Buchanan, Kenneth K. DuVall, Elmer H. Jennings, Richard W. Mahony Sr., Guy E. McCoscor, Roy H. Purdy, William E. Schubert, John G. Strange and Dewey Zwicker. Robert W. Ebben, K. E. Stansbury and William H. Zuehlke Jr. were re-elected as advisory directors.

Re-elected as officers were Harold C. Adams, president; R. P. Beelen, W. E. Buchanan and A. O. Seifert, vice presidents; Marvin Heiden, vice president and cashier; Jerome J. Capitaine, Calvin B. Falk, C. Donald Gelvin and J. E. Wissman, assistant vice presidents; Harry A. Wachter, auditor, and Gilbert A. Begler, Leona E. Davis, Al H. Stogbauer and Arnold R. Welch, assistant cashiers. Peter Goerl, former assistant vice president, retired during 1962 after 45 years with the bank.

The bank's total assets are $62,900,000, an increase of $7,000,000 over last year. Deposits rose to $54,000,000 from $48,700,000. Loans increased $3,500,000 to a total of $30,500,000, with all departments showing an increase and reflecting new highs.

Reviewed Building Plans The directors reviewed the building program, which has gone through the first phase of demolition of the former Prange annex. Construction of the north half of the new bank is starting, and when this is completed, the west or south half will be raised and rebuilt. Completion of the total building program is expected in 20 months.

The drive-in bank, opened last fall, has been very well received. Adams told the board. The bank also started a women's service department during 1962.

The book value of the bank stock is $65.00 per share, with additional reserves for contingencies of $8.00 per share.

central right now. Through co-existence they hope to influence public opinion in the United States.

Our first problem then is to understand communism and nothing about, stand in the way of our conducting a war that has been pushed upon us, he said. This does not mean immediate nuclear conflict, Meyer said, rather the only way to prevent such a war is to oppose communism at its weak points. Every time we take a strong stand they retreat. The West faces its most demanding crisis in history, Meyer said, with the stark alternatives victory or defeat.

Greater Strength Although the enemy is devoted to his aim, Meyer feels that we have in our heritage a far greater strength and we have the physical power. We have lacked certainty in the right as God gives us to see the right. We must impress this upon the leadership or change the leadership, he said.

Meyer proposed an immediate invasion of Cuba and the removal of the Castro regime. He denied this was abandoning moral principles and said we were morally justified in waging a war that is being waged against us.

Meyer suggested giving an ultimatum to Russia to tear down the Berlin Wall or to incur an air and sea blockade of the Soviet Empire. He also proposed that the money being spent on foreign aid be sent to the satellite countries in Eastern Europe to build up the undergrounds and otherwise help prepare them for revolt.

Evil Danger He opposed world government as evil and a dangerous concentration of power as well as an impossibility but he recognized the United Nations as a suitable place for diplomatic meetings and other international relations. However, he said, we should stop financing the U.N. in the Congo and leave Tshombe to his own salvation.

In the Congo Meyer said "we won a great victory over ourselves—like the great victory over when we helped Castro over Batista."

Meyer emphasized that he didn't think the United States should run the world. "I just want to destroy communism and get back to good old fashioned American isolationism," he said.

He did not feel our State Department was controlled by Communists and suggested that the best way to fight any possible Communists in government is to oppose policies. Large segments of the press, radio and TV lie about world affairs, he said, because of a lack of understanding. He also thought the press in general tended to reflect official policy.

Don't Answer Dr. Nichols joked, "I learned some time ago not to answer questionnaires. If you fill out a questionnaire, the guy who sent it will send you a report that

"You have to be a bearer of good tidings if you want to be promoted," Dr. Nichols warned, and this "works a little mischief in business." No one wants to bring bad news, he said, and when the time of reckoning comes, "the buck can be passed faster than the board chairman can chase it."

Status has an adverse effect on "vertical" communications, Dr. Nichols explained. Horizontal communications — between foreman and vice president with vice president — can be carried out effectively, he said, but much less of the message gets through from top to bottom when one participant is constantly sensitive to the fact that his superior has the power to say yes or no, he said.

More Knowledge There was a time, Dr. Nichols noted, when parents tried to pass on all their knowledge and experience to their children in the first 12 or 14 years of their life so the children could go on to bigger and better things from there. The tremendous growth of knowledge, particularly in the last 10 years, has changed that. Man's body of knowledge doubled from the time of Christ to 1700, he said, redoubled by 1900, doubled again by 1950 and doubled again in the following decade.

Thus man's knowledge is 16 times greater, "but we aren't 16 times more efficient at communicating than was Aristotle," he noted.

Parents cannot pass on their cultural knowledge because they don't know what the children will need to know, he said. "I don't even know what my youngsters are talking about!"

There are some resources to help us out," Dr. Nichols said. Scientists have shown that no man has made effective use of more than 5 per cent of his billions of brain cells. This is a frontier for us to explore, tap and exploit.

'Sea of Paper' Threatens to Choke Lifeblood of Business, SAM Told

University of Minnesota Professor Lists Four Major Barriers to Communications

MANITOWOC — "A sea of paper, you don't know what to do with, threatens to choke the lifeblood out of every business in the country today."

That was the warning of Dr. Ralph G. Nichols, of the University of Minnesota, who discussed "Barriers to Communication" at the dinner session of the Fox Valley Chapter of Society for Advancement of Management at Branch River Country Club.

This "memorandum mania" is just one of four major communications barriers, Dr. Nichols explained. Others are the "good news complex," the problem of status and what he called "the increasing weight of our cultural heritage."

The popular slogan, "Don't say it—write it," has given impetus to the movement to write and file away so many things that one out of six workers is a clerical worker "who does nothing but shuffle, file and unfile paper," he said. "Much of man's knowledge is lost in the files where you can't find it again."

Don't Answer Dr. Nichols joked, "I learned some time ago not to answer questionnaires. If you fill out a questionnaire, the guy who sent it will send you a report that

"You have to be a bearer of good tidings if you want to be promoted," Dr. Nichols warned, and this "works a little mischief in business." No one wants to bring bad news, he said, and when the time of reckoning comes, "the buck can be passed faster than the board chairman can chase it."

Status has an adverse effect on "vertical" communications, Dr. Nichols explained. Horizontal communications — between foreman and vice president with vice president — can be carried out effectively, he said, but much less of the message gets through from top to bottom when one participant is constantly sensitive to the fact that his superior has the power to say yes or no, he said.

More Knowledge There was a time, Dr. Nichols noted, when parents tried to pass on all their knowledge and experience to their children in the first 12 or 14 years of their life so the children could go on to bigger and better things from there. The tremendous growth of knowledge, particularly in the last 10 years, has changed that. Man's body of knowledge doubled from the time of Christ to 1700, he said, redoubled by 1900, doubled again by 1950 and doubled again in the following decade.

Thus man's knowledge is 16 times greater, "but we aren't 16 times more efficient at communicating than was Aristotle," he noted.

Parents cannot pass on their cultural knowledge because they don't know what the children will need to know, he said. "I don't even know what my youngsters are talking about!"

There are some resources to help us out," Dr. Nichols said. Scientists have shown that no man has made effective use of more than 5 per cent of his billions of brain cells. This is a frontier for us to explore, tap and exploit.

Employment to be Steady in Area for First Part of 1963

Smaller Turnover of Jobs Marks Picture in City, County Scene

The employment situation will for industrial growth involving remain steady in Appleton and more jobs in the near future. Outagamie County during the first half of 1963.

The prediction came this week from Fred Gehrke, manager of Gehrke said, as he referred to the Appleton office of the Wisconsin State Employment Service, which keeps a close tab on jobs and the work force.

However, Gehrke sounded a caution note that the Appleton area is being confronted with a coming faster than the supply of new type of problem due to its rapid population growth.

"The number of people available for work is increasing but the turnover of jobs has not been the same proportionately," Gehrke said.

Now in his 29th year as manager of the local WSES office, Gehrke said that a look back at 1962 and a projection into the future would indicate that Appleton enjoys one of the most stable employment situations in the state. It has had this distinction for many years.

Few Leave Gehrke said openings for Appleton has fewer young people leaving the community to seek employment elsewhere than the average. "The 18-year-olds remain in the Appleton area where there are diversified job opportunities," Gehrke explained.

At the end of 1962 there were 29,470 persons employed in Outagamie in establishments included in the WSES reporting service. In 1961 the total was 29,250.

The number of employers making use of the WSES services during the past year was 662 as compared to 648 in 1961.

The employment service made 1,855 job placement (non-agricultural) in 1962, a drop from the 1,936 total in 1961. Gehrke explained the reason for the drop was that in 1961 there was a flurry of employment activity when a new discount establishment opened.

Made Referrals During December the WSES office made 212 referrals to employers in Outagamie County, resulting in the hiring of 89 persons. Gehrke said the active file of people seeking work in December was somewhat lower than usual because "construction held on, better than usual." The seasonal layoff of construction workers was below that of previous years from a percentage basis.

"It appears at the present that the hiring recalls, and seasonal," Gehrke said. He said while the employment situation here is good, there appears to be no major change.

Hearing Set For Suspect

Man Charged With Burglary, Forgery By Appleton Police

Preliminary hearings for a former Illinois resident charged with three burglaries in Appleton and a second count of forgery have been set for Friday, Jan. 18, by Outagamie County Judge Gustave Keller.

Union Joe Beasley, 29, 1016 N. Union St., requested the hearings after he was charged Thursday by Appleton police with breaking into the Appleton Manufacturing Co., Riley's Fine Furniture Store, and the Olson Transportation Co. in December.

Beasley also requested a preliminary hearing on a charge of forgery of an "Angel Sanchez" check which was cashed at Dorn's Super Market Dec. 7.

Held on Bond Judge Keller ordered Beasley held on $10,000 bond on the burglary counts and an additional $5,000 bond on the forgery charge. The man is being held in the Outagamie County jail on a $10,000 bond for another count of forgery of an "Angel Sanchez" check which was cashed at the Red Owl store in Appleton Dec. 7. He has requested a preliminary hearing on that charge and the hearing is scheduled for this afternoon in Outagamie County Court, Branch 2.

The checks have been drawn on the account of the defunct Neenah firm, the Earl and Benjamin Advertising Service and were made out by a check writer.

Chilton Library Circulation Hits New High

But Adult Book Use Drops to 3,047 In Year's Time

CHILTON — The Chilton public library's circulation hit a new all-time high during 1962, according to annual statistics released this week.

Circulation during the past year totaled 15,405. This is an increase of 2,097 over the 13,308 circulation of 1961. Adult use of the library dropped, however, during the past year when the circulation amounted to 3,047 books compared with 3,328 in 1961.

The 281 decline was more than offset by a 3,378 increase in circulation of children's books. The 12,358 recorded in this department during 1962 is another record. The circulation of children's books in 1961 totaled 9,980.

Also during the year 412 new books were added to the shelves and 221 names were added to the borrower list which now exceeds 1,500. Many are inactive, however.

December circulation was 1,009 including 1,009 children's books and 187 adult books.

Gov. Reynolds Names Koop New Commissioner

MADISON (AP)—Gov. John W. Reynolds today appointed Howard Koop commissioner of the State Department of Administration to succeed Joe Nusbbaum. Nusbbaum resigned to head the Washington staff of Sen. Gaylord Nelson.

Koop, 38, had been a financial adviser to Nelson in the executive office and left that post recently to take an administrative job in the office of Eugene McPhee, director of Wisconsin State Colleges.

As head of the department, Koop will be paid $16,000 a year. The post requires Senate confirmation. The Senate sat on Nusbbaum's appointment for two years before confirming him.

The department was created by Nelson in 1959 and combines state budgeting, engineering, purchasing, personnel and research. It was the first major state governmental reorganization since 1939.

In announcing the appointment, Reynolds said that Koop is "the most qualified man in the state for this position."

Club to Hold Ice Contest

Officers Named During Meeting At Embarrass

EMBARRASS—All officers of the Embarrass Conservation Club were re-elected at a meeting Wednesday night at the Village Inn.

They are Harlow Fischer, president; Russell Anderson, vice president; Ruben Lueck, secretary; Howard Mack, treasurer; and Julius Barkow, trustee. Other trustees on the board are Al Tellock and William Barkow.

Plans Drive

The club voted to conduct the annual membership drive in conjunction with the ice-out contest. The boat will be placed on the ice in the Embarrass river Feb. 1 and the deadline for the contest will be Mar. 16 unless weather conditions make it necessary to close the contest earlier. Six prizes will be awarded with a total of $25 in cash to be given out.

Plans were made to have a fox hunt Jan. 20 with the hunters to meet at 8 a.m. at the Village Inn. The club members decided that the hunter whose dog drives out the fox will get the bounty.

If the weather does not permit the hunt to be held Jan. 20, it will be held Jan. 27. Lunch will be available.

Fire Crewmen Make 63 Runs During 1962

Crew at New London Answers 40 Calls Within City Limits

NEW LONDON — The New London Fire Department made 63 fire runs during 1962, according to a report released by Fire Chief Al Schlafer. Of the 63 runs, 40 of them were made within the city and 23 were rural.

Compared to 1961, this is a drop of 18 city runs. The department, however, made five more rural runs in 1962 than they did in 1961.

The most serious run made by the department was a residential fire March 3 at 214 E. Spring St. where Mrs. Mary Nass suffered fatal burns.

Breakdown of Types

A breakdown of the various types of fires show that there were 14 residential, two mercantile, four manufacturing, four grass or brush and two miscellaneous. There were eight other runs which were mostly car fires and the department was called to two false alarms. Four emergency runs, which did not include fire, were also made.

Schlafer said according to insurance adjuster reports that have been received so far, total building claims of $3,100 were paid and personal property claims of $1,517 were paid. These reports are only within the city, he said, and are still incomplete. The total amount of claims paid for losses within the city will not be known until all reports are in, and they may not be received for several weeks, he added.

New Supply of 1-Cent Stamps At Post Office

A supply of 100,000 1-cent stamps was received today at the Appleton Post Office, Francis Sumnitch, postmaster, said Thursday.

"We should be in good shape now to handle any requests that come in," he said.

Sumnitch said several thousand 1-cent stamps were received Wednesday before noon and were gone by closing time. He added that the demand for the suddenly popular stamps didn't seem to be slackening as of this morning.

The new 5-cent flag stamp has been received by Fox Cities' post offices and are on sale now, Sumnitch said.

New 5-cent stamped envelopes also are now on sale at the post office.

Free Inspection Offered

Fire Department Plans To Hold Open House

WAUPACA — An open house is scheduled from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday, Jan. 19, at the city police and fire departments at the city hall.

The purpose of the open house, according to Chief of Police Fred Rasmussen and Fire Chief James "Bob" Hansen, is to give local residents an opportunity to see what the departments have in the line of equipment and explain the methods of responding to emergencies.

The fire department also is offering a free home inspection for all local residents. Chief Hansen said firemen are interested in fire prevention throughout the year and the home inspection is a part of that program.

"When people go to bed at night, they want to feel assured their houses will not burn down," Chief Hansen said. "This free inspection is a service offered to all residents to help them remove any and all fire hazards from their homes," he explained.

FHA Lends $13 Million in Wisconsin in Fiscal 1962

Rate of New Loans Ahead of Last Year by About $3,000,000

Nearly $13,000,000 in loans were made in Wisconsin by the Farm and Home Administration during fiscal 1962. Robert Wilms, county supervisor, reported. The present rate of new FHA loans is ahead of the 1961 fiscal year by about $3,000,000.

Part of the loans made during the last calendar year were forestry loans to encourage development and maintenance of small woodlots on the farmlands of Wisconsin. Recreational loans were made to allow farmers to develop additional sources of income on their farms.

Senior citizen loans also were granted to help persons over 62 years of age acquire or develop satisfactory housing in rural areas.

Two-County Area

In the Winnebago - Outagamie County area, loan applications for the calendar year of 1962 were as follows: 40 for operating loans, 63 for farm ownership, 32 for rural housing and 2 for soil and water. Operating loans amounted to $88,270, farm ownership loans $287,580, rural housing loans $200,854 and soil and water loans $650. Total loans were $555,354. Total collections during the same period were $275,946.

In the two-county area, 11 new homes were constructed. The total case load is 133 unduplicated families, and 187 various loans are outstanding.

Oshkosh Cows Complete DHIR Records

Four registered Guernsey cows in the herd of Warren J. Moon, Oshkosh, have recently completed top official DHIR production records, according to the American Guernsey Cattle Club.

The testing was supervised by the University of Wisconsin. The cows were milked twice daily.

A five year old, Moons Marion Bernice, produced 12,300 pounds of milk and 602 pounds of butterfat.

Moons Chum Molly, a senior four year old, produced 10,110 pounds of milk and 503 pounds of butterfat.

A junior four year old, Golden Grange Queenoma produced 11,790 pounds of milk and 538 pounds of butterfat.

Select Judges To Choose Young Farmer

Judges have been selected for the annual Outagamie County Outstanding Young Farmer program.

Each year a panel selects an outstanding county man as an example of good farming practices. Nominations are made by farmers, vocational agriculture teachers, farm classes. Sponsors of the contest are the Appleton Junior Chamber of Commerce and Appleton Appliance Co.

Judges are Walter Long, of Long, Wickert and Karel, auctioneers, Norbert Jochman, Badger Breeders technician, and Robert Schroeder, assistant manager, Production Credit Association.

Jaycee members working on the project include Gerald Long, Gerald Schoepke, Charles Green Jr. and Joseph Landusky.

Requirements for nomination are that a man must earn at least two thirds of his annual income from farming and must be between 21 and 35 years old.

A banquet honoring top farmers will be held Feb. 5 at Bernice's Supper Club, Appleton. Larry Busso, WBAY-TV farm director, will speak.

of milk and 530 pounds of butterfat.

All of the above totals were compiled over a period of 305 days.

Outagamie Farmers Paid $1,137,930

Extension to Hold Clinics For Farmers

Area county extension offices, in cooperation with the University of Wisconsin, will conduct meetings on the "Detection and Prevention of Abnormal Milk."

Invitation to clinic meetings will be extended jointly by Joe Walker, Waupaca County agent, and John E. Powers, Outagamie County agent, to all farmers in their counties.

The Outagamie County meeting will be at Black Creek Community Hall at 1 p. m. Feb. 19. The Waupaca County meeting will be at Manawa High School at 8 p. m. Feb. 19.

An all day meeting will be conducted Jan. 23 in Winnebago County, and an afternoon and evening clinic will take place Feb. 20 in Shawano County. The Calumet County clinic will take place all day March 5.

Money Comes Back Through U. S. Programs on Feed Grain, Soil Bank and Conservation Sharing

BY ROY VALITCHKA II
Post-Crescent Regional Editor

Outagamie County farmers received a whopping $1,137,930 in payments during 1962 through federal programs administered by the Agriculture Conservation Stabilization Service.

Of the money paid, $865,970 was for the feed grain program, $193,914 for land still in soil bank and $67,769 for cost sharing programs under the Agriculture Conservation Program.

Under the soil bank, 167 farms with 12,000 acres participated. This program was discontinued by the Kennedy Administration. Farms still are completing the time requirement for allowing land to be idle under the program.

Grain Payments

Wheat stabilization payments to take $7,599 to 42 farmers on 192 acres, barley - feed grain, $771 to four farmers on 37 acres, and corn-feed grain, $865,970 to 1,104 farmers on 19,094 acres. The wheat and barley programs were the same as the corn-feed grain program instituted in 1961.

Under the soil bank land was taken out of production and allowed to be fallow with a sod cover for a specified number of years. Farmers received a per acre payment based on the class value of their land, whether it was top crop land, poor grade or medium. Classes ranged from Class I through VI. The average payment in Outagamie County was $15 per acre per year.

Some proponents of the soil bank felt it did more good toward cutting down surplus at less of a cost to the taxpayer. Under the soil bank, cattle and other farm enterprises were forced off the land. A farmer found other employment in some cases and still received an annual "rent" which allowed him to live at his farm home.

Under the feed grain program, a man cuts back production but still farms his land.

Government Costs

A year ago, Joseph Rickert, Outagamie County ASCA manager, said surplus storage crops cost the government more than $1 million daily. Rather than pay this sum for storage, he said, why not pay it for farmers not to produce, and cut back on surplus.

The money paid by the government to the farmer, Rickert said, comes back in taxes because the farmer has to claim it as income and also pumps money into the economy.

The feed-grain program, covering corn, wheat and barley, was started in 1961 based on a two year crop history of acres grown in corn between 1959 and 1960. The 1,104 farmers with a corn base of 34,755 acres, diverted 19,094 acres and did not produce corn on this land. Of the acreage diverted, farmers voluntarily cut back by 2,500 additional acres they did not get paid for. The county grows about 61,000 acres of corn a year. Farmers received

Feeder Pig Co-Op Will Sell Calves

3,000 Members Initial Goal in Plan to Expand Group's Business

Post-Crescent News Service

Three thousand members is the minimum goal set by the Wisconsin Feeder Pig Marketing Co-operative for its proposed Dairy Herd and Livestock Marketing Division. Organizational meetings have been scheduled in eight counties by Norval Dvorak, general manager.

The co-op believes it can get better prices for farmers on sales of dairy herd replacements in other states. Dvorak and the board of directors believe there is a big potential that can be tapped.

During the last fiscal year ending in July, Dvorak points out, a total of 77,501 dairy calves were shipped out of the state. Mature cows accounted for another 85,258 head, making a total of 162,759 dairy exports.

Iowa Leads

Iowa was the best customer, with farmers in that state buying 17,700 calves. Next were Nebraska, with 10,672; Kansas, 9,630;

South Dakota, 9,455, and Missouri, 4,382.

Under the Feeder Pig Co-op's plan, dairy calves would be sold as "Wisconsin Select" and "Wisconsin Chosen." The co-op would promote them as desirable for dairy production.

In addition, the organization would handle crossbred beef calves, bull calves for feeding, and veal calves.

It will be interesting to see what develops.

For one thing, there's the quarrel with the Equity Cooperative Livestock Sales Assn. Equity people feel that the Feeder Pig Co-op is encroaching on Equity territory, and they don't like it at all.

Milo K. Swanton, executive secretary of the Wisconsin Council of Agriculture Cooperative, has expressed alarm over the quarrel. He doesn't think it's good for co-operatives to fight among themselves. Both Equity and Feeder Pig are Council members.

St. Isidore Days to be Planned At Green Bay Catholic Meeting

Will Honor Patron Saint of Farmers At Three Area Churches Feb. 19-21

GREEN BAY — St. Isidore Days at three churches of the Green Bay Diocese will be planned when the Catholic Rural Life Conference holds a meeting Feb. 5 at the Beaumont Hotel according to Mrs. C. A. Perkins, Diocesan chairman. They are scheduled for March 19 at Holy Innocents Church, Manitowoc, March 20 at Assumption Church, Pulaski, and March 21 at St. Mary's Church, Kaukauna. St. Isidore is the patron saint of farmers.

The meeting will open at 11 a.m. with the presentation of "Mater et Magistra," written by Pope John XXIII last year. It will be presented by Father Tad Koszarek, professor at the Oneida Sacred Heart Seminary and past diocesan chairman.

Explanation of the three sectional meetings for 1963 will be given at 11:30 a.m., with reports of regional directors at 11:30 a.m.

FFA Member Has Top Herd At Amherst

Butterfat Averages 496 Pounds Per Cow in Year

AMHERST — Averaging 496 pounds of butterfat and 19,467 pounds of milk per cow, the herd of Donald Bacon was rated as the highest producing herd on test in the local Future Farmers of America agriculture class.

The second highest producing herd is owned by Lavern Madsen, being tested by his son, David. Upon completion of the Amherst agriculture classes' dairy herd summary records, it was found for the 29 herds testing, the annual average milk production had increased 1,000 pounds to 9,950 pounds milk production per cow. Average butter fat production for 1961-62 was 381.5 pounds per cow, an increase over last year.

Cow Produces 1,000 Pounds Of Butterfat

Year Record Set By Animal Owned By Brillion Man

CHILTON — Donald Schnell, Brillion, one of Calumet County's leading dairymen made the break through in production per cow. A cow in his herd has just completed a 365-day record on twice a day milking with 1,001 pounds of fat.

This is the first time, according to the knowledge of Calumet County Agent Orrin Meyer, that a cow has produced over a thousand pounds of fat in a year in the County. It took 22,042 pounds of milk to make the over thousand pounds of fat production. For the sake of comparison, the average cow in Wisconsin produces 279 pounds of fat and 7,640 pounds of milk. Cows with records of over a thousand pounds fat are scarce.

Name of the Holstein making the fabulous record is Cherrybold Dunloggin Bess. She is a 10-year-old and is classified Good Plus for type. Her records have consistently been over 500 pounds of fat and on several occasions came close to the thousand pound mark. She has had a calf each year.

The famous cow was sired by Ralph Dunloggin Arm, a bull used in the Leonard Seybold herd before the Seybold dispersal. It was at the dispersal three years ago that Schnell studied the pedigree and decided to purchase the cow. The dam is Cherrybold N J Belle with most of her records over 800 pounds fat.

Going back in the pedigree one finds such famous bulls as N J E S Conqueror, Gummy Leigh and old Admiral Bonny Girl himself. He was a Gold Medal Sire proved in Calumet County.

The Donald Schnell farm is located two miles north of Forest Junction and one mile east. It is the former Leonard Seybold farm.

The Schnell herd consists of 30 milking cows and has been under Dairy Herd Improvement Association work well over two decades. It was started by Arthur

A Holstein Cow owned by Donald Schnell, Brillion, has produced more than 1,000 pounds of butterfat in 365 days on a twice a day milking. It took 22,042 pounds of milk to make the record.

List Deadline On Crop Loans Wil Be Honored at Meeting

General Provisions Set by Chairman Of ASCS Agency

The deadline for price support loans and purchase agreements on a number of crops harvested in 1962 is Jan. 31, 1963, according to the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation County Committee. The crops include wheat, barley, oats, grain sorghum, rye, dry beans, flaxseed and soybeans.

The Outagamie County support price on oats is 62 cents a bushel. In order to process loans by Jan. 31, samples must be taken by Jan. 18.

Meetings Scheduled

CLINTONVILLE — The American Legion and Auxiliary will hold separate meetings at the Veterans Memorial building at 8 p.m. today, followed by a joint gathering for a corn-feed.

Schnell, Calumet County Highway Commissioner and father of Donald, here again is evidence, according to Calumet County Agent Orrin Meyer, that belonging to the dairy enterprise.

Two Wisconsin Professors Will Be Honored at Meeting

MILWAUKEE — Two University of Wisconsin professors — Walter A. Rowlands and A. R. Albert — will be honored at the annual meeting of the Wisconsin Chapter Soil Conservation Society of America meeting here tonight.

Rowlands, a land use specialist at the University, will be cited for "promoting conservation by arousing interest and demonstrating the need of zoning in a citizens' program of planned use of all resources."

Albert, an emeritus professor of soils, will be cited for exceptional leadership and devotion in encouraging the wise use of soil and water resources especially on organic and sandy soils.

The citations will be presented at a banquet session of the two day meeting Gladwin E. Young, deputy administrator of the U. S. Soil Conservation Service, Washington, D. C., is the banquet speaker.

The citations are annually given by the Society to conservation leaders. Receiving the award last year were Fred Trenk, emeritus professor of forestry at the U. W.; Fred C. Wilson, retired forester with the Wisconsin Conservation Department; and George Harb, ties and towns advising on workable zoning ordinances and land use planning programs.

Albert retired from the University in 1958. He joined the staff in 1911 and worked throughout his career to improve Wisconsin's thousands of acres of sandy land. His work involved fertilizer, water and soil management to stop wind erosion and produce agricultural crops.

Meeting Suggested For Purpose of Work Plan Review

Are Needs Reflected in Program, SCS Educational Specialist Asks

A special meeting to review and change, if necessary, the conservation work plan for Outagamie County was suggested by a Soil Conservation Service official Friday.

Donald Niendorf, Manitowish SCS educational specialist, suggested members of the Soil Conservation District be familiar with the long range conservation plan drawn up in 1947 when SCS was established in the county. He said the district program should reflect needs from 1960 through 1975.

The SCS is a federal program set up to aid farmers in improving natural resources on their farm. Technicians and engineers are provided to assist the farmer and recommend conservation practices. Cost sharing for projects is available to a farmer under the Agriculture Conservation Program of the county Agriculture Conservation Stabilization Service.

Moral Obligation

"It is our responsibility to examine and evaluate our program," Niendorf said. The district committee is made up of members of the county board agriculture committee. By statute the committee must meet as a soil conservation district committee each year and work out and plan county programs. The men, at this meeting, do not serve in the capacity of county board committee members.

"We must establish and continue resource use measures on every acre of Outagamie County," he said. "We have a moral obligation as good stewards not to allow better shelter development but work out an overall plan."

Niendorf told the committee it had a relationship to the federal employees in the county as a farmer has to a hired man. When a hired hand is given work and made to carry it out the farmer often is successful, he said. If a hired hand such as federal employees are given unnecessary work, a whole SCS program suf-

Name Speaker For Meeting

Conservationists to Hear Speaker Talk On Federal Program

Gladwin E. Young, deputy administrator of the U.S. Soil Conservation Service from Washington, will be a keynote speaker for the Wisconsin Chapter Soil Conservation Society of America meeting.

Young will speak at a banquet program, Friday, Jan. 18, on urban and rural relations in conservation. He will appear at the meeting again Jan. 19 discussing a recent visit with Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman to eight foreign countries.

2-Day Meeting

The meeting for the first time features two days of discussions. In previous years it has been a one-day session.

Opening the program, at the Wisconsin Hotel, is Wm. Russell, chairman of the Wisconsin Chapter, and newly-named Wisconsin State Conservationist.

Following on the morning program are Paul Olson, Madison school principal and a member of the Conservation Commission, and Harold Jordahl, assistant director of the Wisconsin Department of Resource Development.

After lunch Cy Kabat, Wisconsin Conservation Department, and Walter Rowlands, University of Wisconsin, will discuss land plans. He said He urged the district committee to take a strong hand and know and understand problems in the county.

ning principles. Also on the program are George Browning, director of the Agricultural Experiment Station at Iowa State University and president of the Soil Conservation Society of America; Allan S. Haukaas, Port Atkinson businessman; and Walter Scott, Wisconsin Conservation Department.

Saturday morning's program features the second appearance by Young, as well as reports by Browning, and by George C. Berteau, Kenosha industrial executive, and chairman of the Southeastern Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission.

Deadline Set On Applying Small Grains Plan Of ASC Deadline Set for Jan. 18

CHILTON — Jan. 18 is the deadline for filing small grain loan applications, Herb Goeldi, chairman of the Calumet County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, reminded farmers.

The support rates per bushel for the county include oats, 62 cents; barley 95 cents, flax, $2.75, rye, $1.07; soybeans, $2.22, and wheat, $2.03.

Producers who have not participated in the 1962 Feed Grain Program are still eligible for price support on flax, rye and oats. Soybeans, to be eligible for price support, must have been produced in 1962 by an eligible producer on a farm on which the total acreage of conserving and idle land in 1962 was not less than the 1960-60 conserving and idle land acreage.

To qualify for wheat price supports the producer must have complied with his 1962 land acreage allotment.

The deadline for signing purchase agreements for any of the above small grains is Jan. 31. Anyone interested in any of the loan programs is asked to contact the ASCS Office, City Hall, Chilton, before Jan. 18.

Calumet County Schedules 4-H Leader Training Talks

CHILTON — Three Calumet 4-H leader planning and training meetings have been scheduled in the near future by Charles Niko-lai, club agent.

Of prime importance is the leader meeting at 8 p.m. Jan. 15 at the Forest Junction School. To be discussed will be possible age requirement changes for 4-H, career exploration for older 4-H members, youth camp and pending county fair entry changes.

Learn Procedures

Beginning 4-H leaders will learn about project requirements, meeting procedure and club training at one of two sessions planned for 8 p.m. Jan. 16 and 1 30 p.m. Jan. 17 at the courthouse here.

All leaders who have started 4-H work in the past few years and have never attended a meet-Schooling of this type are urged to make every effort to be present at one of the two meetings.

Leaders and older members will have an opportunity to study photography and film processing at a meeting Saturday afternoon at the home of Dennis Bartash, New Holstein.

4-H Contest To be Held in Black Creek

The annual Outagamie County Soil Conservation District Speaking Contest is scheduled for Jan. 23, it was announced by Courtney Schwartz, Outagamie County 4-H Club agent. It will be held at 7 p.m. in the Black Creek Grade School.

The contest will be divided into

Soil Engineers Complete Work on Several Projects

Favorable Weather Brings Staff Up to, Ahead of Goal Schedule

Favorable weather conditions at a meeting of the county soil conservation district committee. Practices installed were compared to conservation needs of the county, realistic goals and actual completion. Geiger's report also showed how much work should be accomplished in an average year with a staff adequate to the requirements and size of the most in any one year. Vern Geiger, SCS supervisor, reported.

The work breakdown included:

PRACTICE	Need	Work	Lead	Realistic Goal Completed
Diversions	2,374,000 feet	15,000	4	2,700
Grassed Waterway	400	10	2	1,700
Deep Drainage	528,000 feet	15,000	4	21,785 feet
Strip Cropping	25,200 acres	350	300	24,400
Surface drainage	13,465,000 feet	250,000	400	223,770
Terraces	2,851,000 feet	5,200,000	75	175,900
Tile Drains	31,143,000 feet	150,000	50	25
Tile Structures	4,500	75	25	50
Wildlife Habitat	7,000 acres	200	100	50

The SCS, last year, started its operations on a fiscal year, July 1 to June 31. Before this time it had planned operations on a calendar year.

Geiger, with his staff, Donald Powers and Robert Lieske, set a goal of 24 cooperators and got 37. Basic plans were to be completed for 30 cooperators and 27 actually were completed; 10 revisions as a goal and nine completed; five group plans as goal, 12 completed; five plans as goal, 11 completed; one erosion control plan as goal, none completed, 10,400 surveys as goal, 4,830 completed.

The goal for land owners to be assisted was 375, actually aided 216; services provided, goal 875, completed 743; land owners applying practices, 120 goal, 113 accomplished; advisory services, 50 goal, 26 completed; referrals received from ACP (agriculture conservation program), 250 goal, 51 completed, and ACP referrals serviced, 250 goal, 125 completed.

Requests for practices under ACP by townships included Black Creek, 21; Bovina, 22; Buchanan, 10; Center, 17; Cicero, 20; Dale, 7; Deer Creek, 17; Ellington, 24; Freedom, 26; Grand Chute, 16.

Geiger stressed he cannot force a man to put in a practice once it is recommended, but should a practice be put in he cannot approve it for cost sharing unless the job meets specifications.

Geiger told the committee at some times during the construction season the SCS had 10 and 12 machines running a day.

One of the biggest problems, Geiger said, is working out plans for farms where more than one farmer will be affected by a program. Often on drainage, Geiger said, water must go over more than one farmer's land. The others must be asked whether they will approve of the work and be convinced of its usefulness.

Geiger stressed he cannot force a man to put in a practice once it is recommended, but should a practice be put in he cannot approve it for cost sharing unless the job meets specifications.

Waupaca 4-H Club Plans Two Projects

WAUPACA — Plans to participate in two projects were discussed Tuesday night by the Waupaca 4-H Club at the home of Mrs. Lloyd Jenkins, 511 Fifth St.

A committee consisting of Conny Marchel, chairman, Sandra Moak and Jean Hoyer was named to plan a community builders project.

Members interested in participating in the drama festival were given two plays to read. A special meeting will be called to select the play and cast.

New Members Accepted
Margaret and Kathy McGinnis were accepted as new members, according to Arlys Jenkins, club reporter.

John Olsen and Danny Nielsen demonstrated how to bake a cake. Mike Moak demonstrated successful poultry raising.

Laurie Freiburger presented several pantomimes for entertainment. Kathy Bergman and Kathy Hansen were in charge of refreshments.

Plans for The Annual Farm Institute sponsored by the Clintonville Association of Commerce were discussed at a committee meeting at Hotel Marson, Clintonville. The Farm Institute will be Feb. 7 at the Clintonville Senior High School. Seated, from left, are Howard Hundertmark, E. A. Hutchinson and Sherwood Lorenz, chairman of the Association's farm committee, and standing, in the same order, Kermit Sieber, Kenneth Spearbraker, Joe Walker, Waupaca County farm agent, and Jerry Tooley, Jaycee representative. ## Jan. 15 Deadline for Entries In State Quality Beef Contest

Final entry deadline is Jan. 15 for the quality beef contest.

This is a beef carcass evaluation program open to all Wisconsin beef producers, and held as a most important event of the ninth annual Wisconsin Beef Futurity Show and Sale. Dates for the show are Jan. 31-Feb. 12, at the Dane County Fairgrounds at Madison.

The quality beef contest will be limited to Wisconsin bred steers owned by the exhibitor. Any Wisconsin feeder or breeder will be eligible to enter two steers at $3 per head entry fee.

All steers will be judged "on the foot," based on market desirability and value in production of high quality beef. In the carcass judging, entries will be placed on the basis of carcass weight, external fat thickness and distribution, and quantity and distribution of muscling. Entries will be slaughtered, and purchased.

Lake to Lake Co-op Plans $500,000 Plant

Plans for a huge warehouse and plant addition at Kiel have been announced by the Lake to Lake Dairy Cooperative. The building of 234 by 176 feet will cost in excess of $500,000, according to General Manager Truman Torgerson.

In 12 years, Torgerson said, the daily milk intake at Kiel has increased from 214,000 to 580,000 pounds. A record day of 719,000 pounds was recorded last year.

1 and Oct. 31, 1961—Minimum carcass weight 520 pounds.

Co-Op Meeting Friday Set for Black Creek

Registration Scheduled for 10 a.m.
245 Members Expected to Attend

Members of the Wisconsin Feeder Pig Marketing Cooperative from Outagamie County will hold their annual District meeting January 18 at the Community Hall in Black Creek.

Advisory Board Member Marvin Blohm, Seymour will preside over the meeting of the 245 members in this district.

The session will start at 10 a.m. with registration and the redemption in cash of the 1960 earnings and twenty per cent of the 1961 earnings. Reading and explanation of the new proposed Dairy Herd Replacement and Livestock Marketing Division of an advisory board member, nomination of candidates for directorship, submitting of resolutions and bylaws changes will also take place.

Colored slides of new housing features and management practices will be shown and discussed by personnel of the Cooperative. Jack Powers, Outagamie County Agent, will show slides and discuss the topic, "What Is A Herd Book Worth?"

Highlighting the afternoon meeting will be the discussion of the 1962 earnings and explanation of the new proposed Dairy Herd Replacement and Livestock Marketing Division of an advisory board member.

major expansion in the business of selling Wisconsin calves both as dairy herd replacement and for feeding purposes. Both trends now established can stand considerable encouragement, and, if properly guided, can add materially to the livestock producer's income in Wisconsin.

The Wisconsin Feeder Pig Marketing Cooperative was organized by farmers in Northeastern Wisconsin in March, 1957. It has grown from 426 members to presently more than 6,400. This past year over 358,000 feeder pigs were handled by the Cooperative with a dollar business in excess of 5 1/2 million.

Farming and Our Community

A farmer and his PCA fieldman iron out the final details of a loan. This makes money for other people? YES. Here's how:

The money this farmer borrows will be used to make his own farm business grow. This means he'll spend it for goods or services to make his operation more profitable. Feeder livestock. Feed. Seed. Fertilizer. Labor. Fuel. New farm buildings. All these, and many more items may be bought with this money. And who benefits from the sale of these goods to the farmer? Each merchant this farmer regularly does business with.

That's why a lot of people will benefit from this loan transaction. Directly or indirectly, everybody in town, in fact. And the farmer who received the loan in the first place will benefit two ways. He'll make money from the increased efficiency and productivity of his farm ... and he'll save money because PCA loans have low-cost simple interest and are written for farmers to meet our local farm needs. Yes, everybody benefits from a PCA loan.

Farmers Get

an average of $45.50 per acre not to grow corn.

1963 Program
The 1963 program will allow a farmer to cut back production between 20 and 40 per cent based on his 1959-60 crop history. Acreage planted is gained from assessor reports, then measured by ASC officials.

Rickert said farmers could get feed grain payments either in cash or in a certificate allowing them to get corn from surplus storage bins. Most farmers took the cash, he said. With diverted acreage many farmers used the money to buy extra feed to supplement feed that normally would have been corn.

Commodity loans granted by ASCS totaled $25,025. These loans are granted to farmers for farm purchases based on value of a commodity they promise to deliver to the government if the money is not paid back. A farmer must keep in storage on his own farm the cash value of the loan in corn or oats — whichever crop he took out the loan on. Oat loans were $2,846 based on 4,591 bushels and corn loans $12,523 based on 12,276 bushels. This is about $107 per bushel. Rickert said the price at a mill is about $1.21 because of hauling charges.

Cost Sharing
Under the ACP program, a permanent conservation program aimed at maintaining the land and improving fertility, cost sharing (the government pays 50 per cent and the farmer the other 50 per cent — or the government pays less) for each project included:

Pasture renovation, 66 farms,
$7,744; winter cover, none; sod waterways, 11, $1,967; terraces, none; diversions, 4, $351; contour strips, 14, $1,801; wind strips, none; tree planting, 26, $2,808;

timber stand improvement, 2,
$117; erosion control structures,
4, $4,080; surface drainage, 88,
$23,489; liming of legumes, 25,
$2,099; tiling (underground drainage), 29, $17,485; toe walls, 1, $329; summer cover, 2, $31.20, and legumes, 5, $442.

Pasture renovation is a five-year program Rickert said, where a farmer leaves land in sod four years. The sod controls wind and water erosion.

Land Improvement
Liming is an economic measure, Rickert said. A farmer wastes money if her fertilizes land but does not lime or vice versa, he added. Lime helps a farmer get a better legume to stay longer. The land, after being limed, must be turned to sod for a specified time.
The lime problem is greatest in the north and central areas of the state, he said, because there is not enough natural lime in the soil to support agriculture.

Rickert admitted it is difficult to make a person understand why on one hand the government pays a farmer not to produce but on the other hand pays him to improve his land.

A farmer, as any one in industry, must keep in condition the tools of his trade so he may work with them. The land, through ages of use, has changed, he said. It is not as productive as it was originally and erosion and elements take their toll. ACP programs help to keep the land productive and protect natural resources.

Problems of land drainage, erosion and lack of forest cover or game habitat have a direct effect on cities and city dwellers, he said. The government has given

Christmas Party

Christmas carols set the scene for the Christmas party of the Ellington 4-H Club, held following the Dec. 22 meeting of the group at the Ellington Town Hall.
Lunch and refreshments were served the group by the leaders.

A skating party will be held sometime in January, it was decided during the business meeting. Judging for the 4-H speaking contest will be held at the January meeting, it was announced.
Joan Yogert reported on her recent trip to Madison and five new members were voted into the the farmer a way of improving or maintaining his land at a cost no prohibitive to him. Some farmers, if they received no help, would do little or nothing as stewards of their soil, he said.

"Each farmer fights individually to be efficient and exist," Rickert said. Farmers pay for their efficiency because the nation cannot eat or find uses for the products they have.

Programs of surplus payments and subsidies are political foot-balls, it is felt.

Don't Buy Any Spreader Till You See the New
JOHN DEERE "33"
DAIRY SPREADER

The low profile, the big capacity, and the clean design of the John Deere 33 Dairy Spreader is just what you have been looking for . . . and its low cost will please you.

With 20-inch wheels, the 33 spreader is only 47 inches high . . . extra low for use with a barn cleaner. The 52 inch width makes it easier and faster to fill the 33 Spreader with an overhead track manure conveyor. You save time anyway you handle manure.

The 33 Spreader has a combination beater-wide-spread with aggressive diamond-shaped teeth welded to the outer edge of right and left turning spirals. These teeth pull the manure inward and upward so there's no building up or packing in wet or freezing weather.

This 139 bushel spreader is completely PTO powered. It can be unloaded standing still if you prefer to stock your manure instead of spreading during the winter.

Republicans Gain Strength in South

Democrats Maintain Hold in Rural Areas, GOP Chips Away at Cities

BY CARL P. LEUBSDORF
NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — Southern Republicans, more than tripling their congressional vote over the last non-presidential election, have made significant inroads into Democratic strength in metropolitan areas, an Associated Press survey of the 1962 election showed today.

While Democrats maintained their traditional hold in Southern rural areas, the GOP continued to chip away in the cities, a process started in the two presidential races of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Like the North, the South seems on its way to a situation where rural districts are largely one-party, while Democrats and Republicans wage fierce battles for urban and suburban congressional seats.

Republicans added four House seats to the seven they held in the 11 states of the Confederacy. GOP gains also made marginal seven other of the 106 Southern districts, where Democrats won by less than 10,000 votes.

Republican gains came in districts that included Chattanooga, Tenn.; El Paso, Tex.; and the Orlando-Cape Canaveral area of Florida's East Coast.

Strong Districts

Republicans also ran unusually strong in districts that included Miami, Fla.; Houston, Tex.; Memphis, Tenn.; Atlanta, Ga.; and Richmond, Va.

They held districts that include Dallas, Tex.; Charlotte, N.C.; Roanoke and Arlington, Va. and St. Petersburg, Fla.

The total Republican congressional vote in the 11-state region rose from 599,601 in 1958 and 1,745,937 in 1960, to 1,901,856, or 21.1 per cent of the two-party total, a sharp rise from 21.8 per cent two years ago. The Democrats lost more than 2,000,000 votes from their 1960 total, dropping from 6,772,620 to 4,219,888.

Although the GOP congressional percentage still stood far below the party's percentage in the last presidential election — 47.7 — in many districts, it began to approach the presidential figure.

The disparity for the South as a whole was caused by the fact that 49 Democrats were elected without Republican opposition. However, this is the smallest number in this century and a far cry from the 12 elected unopposed four years ago.

For the first time, Republican gains indicated significant party switches on levels below the pres-

Formerly a high school and college teacher, he also was the author of "A Guide to Career Opportunities in the Pulp and Paper Industry," published in 1953. He served on the Outagamie County Draft Board and was a member of Phi Delta Kappa, educational fraternity, and the social fraternity, Phi Kappa Psi.

Saddened By Loss

John G. Strange, president of the Institute of Paper Chemistry, stated, "The entire institute family is saddened by our loss of Mr. Jernegan. We, along with his many friends in the industrial and educational world, will miss him as a professional co-worker and as a personal friend."

Dr. Roy P. Whitney, dean of the institute, stated, "The high regard in which our students held Mr. Jernegan, as well as the personal friendships they developed with him, is a measure of the professional and personal capacity he filled at the Institute of Paper Chemistry."

Jernegan was born March 13, 1920, in Chicago. He received his bachelor of arts degree from Beloit College in 1943 and a master of arts degree in 1947 from the University of Iowa. He studied further in the field of guidance, counseling and student personnel activities at the University of Southern California.

He taught psychology at both Long Beach State College and Beloit College before coming to the Institute of Paper Chemistry. Survivors include his widow, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph L. Jernegan Sr., Seal Beach, Calif.; three sons, Richard, James and Steven, all at home; a brother and a sister.

Friends are making memorial contributions to the Appleton YMCA building fund.

Fatal Blast Caused By French Grenade

ACCRA, Ghana (AP)—The Interior Ministry says an explosion at a stadium that killed four people and injured about 85 was caused by a French-made grenade.

Eighteen of the injured were in serious condition from Wednesday's explosion.

The ministry said grenade fragments indicated it was made in France and probably was "supplied officially to the forces of a neighboring territory."

Mrs. Mary Hambleton, Prairie Village, Kan., didn't have parking meter change so she wrote a check for 25 cents and left it on the windshield. She also left a note on the meter. The police department meter maid, Mrs. Marjorie Cuellar, right, gave her a ticket, however. "How honest does a person have to be?" asked Mrs. Hambleton as she paid her fine. (AP Wirephoto)

No Delay in Data on Bills

Kenneth Friebe withheld the bill copies, which he is entitled to do under a strict interpretation of the rule. Newsweek pointed out that this would prevent them from seeing the bills until next Tuesday.

In the meantime they would have to depend on a bill's author's sometimes hazy understanding of his own bill in order to report its contents with timeliness.

Reporters took their case to Speaker Robert Haase, R-Marquette. Haase, familiar with news work, was sympathetic and persuaded Friebe to follow tradition rather than the rule.

Reporters then were given copies of the 60 bills and six joint resolutions offered for introduction in the Assembly Thursday.

Haase said the outmoded rule probably will be changed so that new legislation can be examined by the Committee on Revisions prior to its initial offering to the Assembly.

Press Not Always Able To Quote Story Source

Birdie Often Responsible

Associated Press News Analyst WASHINGTON (AP) — Birdie told me.

Increasingly over the years many stories have sounded as if a birdie told reporters what President Kennedy or Eisenhower or some official had on his mind.

Those stories came out of so-called background conferences, with a president or official, where the rule is laid down beforehand that the one doing the talking must not be identified by direct quotes.

So the stories use the transparent device of saying the information came from various sources described as "high" or "reliable" or "authoritative."

The least an unsuspecting reader can conclude, from two columns on a personally conducted tour of the presidential mind, is that the President must have some awfully gabby friends.

Lays Egg

The trouble with them is that the birdie sometimes lays an egg: someone not present at the conference and therefore not bound by the rules finds out for a fact the President did the talking and says so in print.

Thus all the time and care that went into arranging the background and concealing the presidential identity goes out the window. It happened to Eisenhower. Now it has happened to Kennedy.

In 1959 Eisenhower had a series of White House background dinners for a select group of newsmen who went out and wrote what he said he thought without saying he said it.

Then at a public news conference one reporter, not at the dinner, asked Eisenhower bluntly if he wasn't the one who had done the talking. He admitted he was.

And he said he wasn't sure these background dinners were a good practice. But he continued them.

Twice in a row—at the end of 1961 and the end of 1962—Kennedy held similar backgrounders at Palm Beach. And both times the reporters present wrote stories on what he thought without saying he told them.

Identify JFK

Both times other newsmen, not in on the backgrounders, followed up by saying Kennedy was the "high authority" and the "in-asked, when much of what Kennedy said had been said publicly two weeks earlier?

Sanger wrote back that the background contained a great deal of background information not available in the television interview, and added:

"I am afraid, however, that the numerous breaches of this particular background — particularly by organizations which were represented — means that there will be no more of these."

But possibly there will be other presidential exchanges with the press patterned after the television appearance, some fitted to electronic journalism and some to journalism of the printed word — and all on the record and in the open.

Kennedy has been considering a television program with a British, French and German interviewer for consumption primarily abroad.

And there is some possibility that he may have some small-scale news conferences, not on a background basis but with everything he says attributable to him for direct quotation.

Speaker's Widow Seeks State Assembly Seat

JANESVILLE (AP) — Mrs. David J. Blanchard of Edgerton, widow of the late Republican speaker of the Assembly, plans to become a candidate for the seat formerly held by her husband.

Mrs. Blanchard told a Rock County GOP caucus Thursday night that she would be willing to make the race.

If Gov. John W. Reynolds calls a special election the primary will be held March 5 and the election April 2.

Harold B. Robinson, an Evansville area farmer, announced previously that he would seek the nomination for the Assembly seat if the election is called.

Blanchard died last month after winning reelection.

MADISON (AP) — Thomas J. Schuh, 24, a technician at the State Crime Laboratory, suffered severe head lacerations early today when he was assaulted by an intruder he discovered in his apartment.

Schuh told police that he was attacked by a man he found in his living quarters when he arrived there about 2 a.m.

The apartment was ransacked but authorities were unable to determine immediately whether anything was missing.

Schuh was taken to Wisconsin General Hospital.

This will be an increase of 2,400 over the February, 1962, enrollment, the school said Thursday.

The registrations on the Madison campus are expected to hit 20,500 in February. If this occurs, it will be the first time in history that the second semester figure has exceeded 20,000.

Fall enrollments at all units of the university exceeded the 34,000 mark.

A Socialist to Lure Business

Governor Reynolds' appointment of Frank Zeidler as director of the state's Department of Resource Development has created consternation throughout the state. It makes no sense except in the context of a payoff for political debts.

Zeidler has been a crusading Socialist for years. As mayor of Milwaukee his administration was characterized by its anti-business tone. He did not seek nor did he receive any cooperation from the business elements in the city.

Now he is the state's ambassador to attract and build new industry in Wisconsin. This is like sending Chiang Kai-shek to sell a bill of goods to Mao Tse-tung.

The political undertones to the appointment are rather obvious. The open split in the Democratic party in which former Governor Nelson tried to oust Patrick Lucey as party chairman found Mayor Maier of Milwaukee as one of Nelson's aides. Reynolds strongly backed Lucey. Zeidler was one of Maier's bitterest critics and it may be assumed he made himself valuable to the Reynolds-Lucey camp.

But if a job had to be found for Zeidler certainly this is the last place anyone expected him to turn up.

We can only wonder if subsequent Reynolds appointments will have the same aroma.

Out Goes Ewbank and Then Brown

The job of being a professional football head coach has about the least security of any avocation. The sports world was shocked twice this week with the dismissal of Weeb Ewbank by the Baltimore Colts and then Paul Brown by the Cleveland Browns. Ewbank's firing has been rumored for some time, but Brown's ouster was completely unexpected even in the inner circles of the league.

Here are two coaches who in subsequent eras were regarded as tops in their field. During the years the Browns completely dominated the old All America Conference and in his baptismal years in the National Football League Brown was regarded not only as the ultimate in coaching proficiency but as one of the smartest general managers in the league as well. The Ewbank era followed, and his teams were the scourge of the league.

One cannot help but wonder what factors bear upon the performance decline of such coaches. Is there a natural law of diminishing returns in the caliber of players available to a particular team? Or do coaching methods change sufficiently in this short a time to pass established mentors by? Certainly such a man's ability to inspire his players or to organize his work doesn't suddenly come and go.

The brutal fact of professional athletics is that sometimes a coach must be replaced even if his ability is still beyond question. A professional football or baseball team is in the business of selling tickets to rather fickle fans. And sometimes a change is necessary if only to reverse a turnstile trend. In this respect a coach is akin to a television star whose ratings begin to decline.

The National Football League is obviously in a new period which might well be called the Lombardi era. The coaching methods and style of play he has made so successful at Green Bay are being emulated by more and more other coaches, many of whom served their apprenticeship at the same time Vince did. And all of us in Packerland hope Vince can come up with the answer on how to prolong this era.

Questions on Vietnam

The recent incidents in Vietnam in which Americans died because Vietnamese soldiers wouldn't fight put the spotlight back on a country which has been strangely out of the headlines in recent months. But the lack of emphasis is probably not accidental. Official Washington takes the rather confusing point of view that there is no war in Vietnam—not even a police action—but that we are winning the war that doesn't exist.

In a way this attitude has some validity. If we acknowledge or loudly publicize our activities in Vietnam we serve to push the Soviet Union into a commitment. As it is now, the Kremlin officially mutters about the oppressive rule of President Diem and the wonderful struggle of the Communist Viet Cong to free the peasants, but the American involvement can be ignored. Since the Communist forces of North Vietnam are tied to Red China which is not quite seeing eye to eye with Premier Khrushchev, the whole matter can be pushed to the background as far as Russia is concerned.

But the truth is that we, as Americans, are at war in Vietnam. Our casualties are growing and they will continue to grow. Officially our military forces in the area are supposed to be training the Vietnamese in guerilla tactics and presumably that is their primary duty. But in reality they are also planning strategy, flying supplies to combat areas and personally leading troops. At least that seems to be the reality if we read between the lines of official announcements and correspondents' reports.

Saving South Vietnam from Communism is not merely an altruistic action. Every bit of the world that gets gobbled up by Red troops is a thrust at us and our security. Nevertheless, if we are to be so thoroughly involved in Vietnam we should in some way gain the authority to save our own troops as well as those of our friends.

At the time the United States gave up on backing right wing forces in Laos, President Kennedy said that we would continue to give assistance to the fight against Communism to people who were willing to fight themselves. The Vietnamese have given some solid indications that they are so willing.

But disturbing reports continue to come from Vietnam. Is President Diem's rule so oppressive that the ordinary people don't much care whether they are governed by Communists or Diem's relatives? Have the efforts to resettle the primitive monsguards really been successful? How much of the foreign aid gets frittered away on the usual Asian graft payoffs?

We should have some answers. Washington's bland assurance that everything is going just dandy isn't enough.

Why Send It Back?

Congressman John Byrnes' query as to why the State Department has been so anxious that the Soviet Union take back the piece of sputnik found in Manitowoc is well posed. What was the urgency? What, in fact, was the idea at all?

It may be that the powers that be in the State Department have some idea Russia's acceptance of the chunk of metal also infers its acceptance of responsibility for future damage by other scraps of space vehicles. Perhaps there is something about the invasion of our air space at stake.

But pressing the Russians to accept the Manitowoc finding is hardly proof that Russia will take the blame if another chunk hits an American or goes through a greenhouse. Somehow it seems to us that the officials in our State Department should find more important ways to earn their salaries.

Looking Backward

Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for Jan. 10, 1963.

The Rev. S. Fallows, chaplain of the Wisconsin 32nd Regiment, was in town last week and by invitation gave our people a short talk on the war—particularly to that portion of the Southern territory in which the regiment now is.

He gave a rather gloomy account of matters down there in Tennessee, among the men in our army. He said that the sick and wounded could not be cared for as they should be and many of them were dying for want of proper nursing. He said that in many cases the routine requisite for a sick or wounded man to go through before getting his discharge of furlough required such a length of time that these papers often came after the man had died.

The army is dispirited, the men want to come home, they are tired of war and favored peace on almost any terms.

He paid Mrs. L. P. Harvey (wife of the late Wisconsin governor who drowned at Pittsburgh Landing while investigating conditions after the battle of Shiloh) a deservedly beautiful tribute for her heaven-sent labors among our sick and wounded men. By them she is regarded as an angel of mercy sent to minister to them.

He stated that in conversation with the Southerners that they are determined to attain their independence and are willing to suffer anything and everything for this purpose. He said that if we expect to conquer them we must show more energy than has yet been brought forth.

As a whole, the remarks of Mr. Fallows were very interesting and entertaining, if unfortunately not as favorable to the Union cause as we might wish.

What Does Stock Market Offer For 1963? Look to Bellwethers

BY HENRY J. TAYLOR

Let's hope the 1963 stock market will perform in a drizzle of gold coins and a thunder of applause. The market, however, is a diver in deep seas. The pros and cons? Buying begets buying. Selling begets selling. That's what often makes Wall Street a one-way street. There are no "new eras," although some kind of "new era" is always claimed. And no "built-in" protections can of themselves change cruel losses into gains when stocks show a loathsome Neanderthal zest to go down.

Dividends will seldom repay capital losses. And in most families (the difficult) guarding of hard-earned capital must be the first consideration. For profits always take care of themselves. Losses never do. The problem is how to keep out of the quicksands.

NO EASY MONEY

The market world wags with tips. But if any easy money were lying around no one would be forcing it into your pockets. There is a very true adage: "You can beat a horse race, but you can't beat the races." The same applies to in-and-out market traders. Only the unknowing try this. It is just not in the cards and cannot be done; a tragic fact often confirmed by the final margin call.

Even among sober investors, what about the charts and averages widely studied? These cannot, and do not, provide against the unexpected. Yet the unexpected is so important that, except for the unexpected, who couldn't be a market millionaire?

What, then, are the main pro and con arguments for 1963, exclusive of a stalemate?

The market lost $116 billion in the first six months of 1962. The year's Dow Jones averages' total travel was 714 points! The bulls, looking for a major advance, insist the crash was merely a "correction" in the glamour-stocks whoopla of the 1957-61 upsurge. This is a very narrow analysis, but its proponents argue that this "correction" paves the way for another bull cycle, already begun, that could boost the Dow Jones averages to a new high and last at least into 1964.

Now upward swings usually last about 20 months. They are thinking about that. In practical terms the bulls say buy on declines. The bears say sell on rallies. For the bears are more impressed by the factors that put the market down last spring than by arguments supporting a new major advance.

They insist the upturn since October is merely a rally in a bear market. They could be right, alas. Every bear market does rally in a way that looks like its end has been seen. Yet every bull market also starts like a mere rally in a bear market. Moreover, once a trend has changed no man alive can tell how far the movement will go; except that it generally goes much further than any right-minded citizen might imagine.

When U. S. Steel was $108 not too long ago who could think it would fall, quite steadily, to $38 a share? Or popular, first-class American Machine and Foundry from the 60s to $16. Did only the cancer scare toss all tobacco stock smack out of bed? Could nest-egg investors in AT&T expect the value to drop more than their cash dividends for 30 years?

RECALL RING LARDNER

Reasons given are about as rewarding as Ring Lardner's paternal analysis when his son asked: "Daddy, are we lost?" "Shut up," Lardner explained.

The market, of course, mirrors the feeling of worldwide millions. Even dull markets never rest at one price. At some point important, widely-held securities that have been declining for a long time stop going down. When such a security finally gets into a definite trend it works with amazing consistency throughout the progress of its move.

An important equity now serving its investors well is General Motors, as is also Standard Oil of New Jersey. A sound advance requires good leaders. If these two bellwethers, in the circumstance of their price and earnings, and other stalwarts like them, cannot stay up, then few minor stocks or whoopla specialists can stay up for long. But should they continue to advance they can be like a great river pumping confidence into the arid sand.

Communism No Threat By Its Own Definition

Editor, Post-Crescent:

In the Forum Sunday Jan. 6, in the letter headed "As Long As Communism Exists In World Peace Isn't Possible," the writer quoted from my two previous letters. I will say just this, Communism is not a threat to the United States. The very definition of Communism makes that clear: "A more equitable distribution of a scarcity." "We do not have a scarcity in the U. S. We have an abundance of everything. Our government must pay over a million dollars a day just to store some of our food surpluses. Laws are passed and penalties are imposed on growers for producing extra, but still the surpluses pile up.

For the United States to be afraid of Communism is like a St. Bernard being afraid of a Pekinese. Technocracy says: "Only that nation that cannot devise a better system than communism need fear communism." Also "In all probability as Russia and others install more technology they will be compelled to abandon their socialist concepts and their state-controlled price system in favor of technological social control purely as a function of social change. They, like North Americans, will be unable to avoid this change, if they wish to survive."

To keep people stirred up about Communism does keep their minds off our real problems and from asking embarrassing questions such as "How come we have war in the midst of plenty? Why can't we solve our crimes and unemployment problems?"

The horse and buggy wasn't able to meet the requirements of the mechanical age and had to give way to a more efficient system. Now the price system cannot meet the needs and requirements of the power age and must also be replaced by one more advanced.

Wisconsin Report
Apportionment Issue Ignores Congressional District Imbalance

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON—A persistent mystery about the reapportionment dispute that has continued in the state since the 1961 legislature is the assumption that it involves primarily the distribution of seats in the legislature, and the tendency to ignore the fact that malapportionment is most pressing in the organization of the congressional districts of the state.

Fully 90 per cent of the speeches made, and the editorials written, and the student term papers prepared, deal with the relatively tiny discrepancy in the distribution of state senators and assemblymen, and are quite indifferent to what is by comparison a damaging, obvious, and even scandalous lack of balance in the representation in the U. S. House of Representatives of the people of Wisconsin.

A technical explanation, perhaps, may be the fact that there is a constitutional mandate for decennial reapportionment of the legislature to fit population. The state constitution is silent on the distribution of seats in the House of Representatives, although obviously the U. S. law contemplates a relationship to population. Presumably Wisconsin could permit its congressional districts to become even more unbalanced, without any constitutional violation. But there is obviously involved here an issue of democratic propriety, and especially since there is so much solicitude concern about the far less exigent legislative districting question.

The largest, the south central Wisconsin area known as the second now held by Rep. Robert Knutson of Watertown, has 220,000 residents, or two and one-half times the number who are represented by Mr. O'Konski.

In the few years following the 1960 census, and again in the period following the 1960 census, critics kept up a clamor for legislative reapportionment, noting that the last redistricting act was dated 1931.

But the legislature did not act to reapportion legislative districts after the 1960 census; it did not touch the congressional districts. It is a fair estimate that the 1963 legislature will adopt a legislative reapportionment act based on the 1960 census. But there is a considerably less chance for a congressional redistricting law, in spite of the fact that the existing boundary lines are more than 30 years old and bear no relation whatever to population facts of today as the naked eye can determine at a glance.

THE POLITICS

Probably the reason for the indifference to a glaring inequity, and preoccupation with the lesser, is the fact that legislative redistricting is basically an issue in which Democrats feel they can gain and Republicans feel they can only lose, while in the congressional situation redistricting would be painful and embarrassing and possibly costly to both parties.

No single present congressman, in all likelihood, would order reapportionment if he could do so by his own vote. Every one of them will be inconvenienced, and one or two of them may be mortally affected. No congressional reapportionment bill yet advanced seriously, for example, offers anything to Rep. Lester Johnson, the Democratic ninth district incumbent, except the bleak prospect of a new territory in which he may lose the next election. Most of the others will find themselves losing good territory, from their selfish view points, or inheriting unfamiliar and possibly dangerous territory, generally complicating their careers.

Such considerations should not deter the private citizen critic, ostensibly concerned about the democratic process, but somehow they appear to have done so, nevertheless.

Strictly Personal
First Names Tell Much About Our Personality

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

Speaking of words and names. As I was the other day, reminded me a few months ago the Harris menage was looking through Roger Price's amusing book, "What Not To Name the Baby."

Price made the observation, which has often occurred to me but which I have never seen in print before, that different forms of the same name apply to very different sorts of persons.

We have for instance, a number of friends named Arthur. One of them is called Art by his friends, another is called Artie, and still another is called only Arthur. Nobody who knows them would dream of calling Art Artie or Artie Arthur.

The same is true of Edwards. Some are always Ed, others are invariably Eddie, and yet others are nothing but Edward. There are Stans and Stanleys, Walters and Wallies, Jims and Jimmie, Richards, Richies and Dicks.

It is more than habit or custom that decrees such different forms of the same name; it is, in fact, a sense of the personality one is addressing oneself to — Artie and Arthur, for example, are quite opposed personalities,

(Parenthetically, only casual acquaintances call me Syd; all my close friends have always called me Sydney, or worse things, but never Syd; yet another Sydney I happen to know is always called Syd by his family and friends.)

Girls' names, it seems are not quite so flexible, but much the same psychological rules apply to them. I know four women named Patricia. One is called Pat, the second Pattie, the third Patsy, and the last only Patricia.

And who would deny that Florence is a very different woman from Flo? Or that the dozen versions of Elizabeth — Liz, Beth, Betty, Betsy, Libby, Buffy, and so on — do not in some real way denote a distinction of personality? How we treat a person's name tells a good deal about that person and our reaction to the ambience he moves in.

One of the funniest segments in an Elaine May and Mike Nichols recording is the part in which a brash and ignorant radio interviewer keeps referring to "Al" Schweitzer. I am sure that no one in his adult lifetime has referred to Dr. Albert Schweitzer as "Al." Any more than I can conceive of Dr. Freud being addressed as "Siggie," even by his intimates. And, reversely, like seems impeccably right for the homespun prairie personality of Dwight Eisenhower.

Dear Miss Feely:

Probably this will sound absurd, but my husband and I are hardly making ends meet even though his income is $18,000 a year. I am sure the trouble is he feels he should manage the money. But he works from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., and has no time to worry with finances. His artistic temperament, so necessary in his work, also lets him have $600 on a single evening and think nothing of it. But we have three children—ages 7, 5, and 3. I know I could handle our money more sensibly but how to persuade him? Do you think I'm right to insist on taking over?

Mrs. Lillian M. Albany, N. Y.

Dear Mrs. M.:
It's wrong to insist, but right to take over. See if you can't make the switch without bruising that artistic temperament. Many men feel they must handle the money in order to be head of the house. In such cases it's only by tact that a wife can make the transition gracefully. I agree that blowing $100 on an evening isn't going to put the children through college. So pick a good moment—not during a lavish evening—and explain you have so much more time than he has to bother with expenses and bills, that worry will interfere with his work, and what's a little old thing like money in comparison.

Then jot these figures down where he'll never find them, and see how close you can come to living with them on a monthly basis.

Housing, $200; food, $160; household operating costs, $70; clothing (including upkeep), $110; savings (including college plans), $150; insurance (life and health), $85; medical (including drugs), $80; entertainment, $65; vacation, $40; gifts, church, etc., $40; books, magazines, educational material, $25; flexible expenditures, including personal allowances for all hands, $150; car, $55. This adds up to $1250 a month, which is allowing for deductions.

On big expenditures, let your husband make the decision. If it's a new car, let him say what kind and color. If it's a TV, let him pick it. Ask him where he wants to go on vacation, after you've saved up the money. As long as he feels he's not being led around on a leash, he'll probably like the idea of your being banker. The small economies you'll be able to make all along the line will doubtless go unnoticed. But they can give you both a comfortable cushion to relax on.

Go at it gradually, and work up to a sound spending plan. Try to allow for a whopper of an evening at rare—repeat, rare—restaurants, even if it means you'll have to wear the same old dress. After all, you want him to enjoy the release from money worries, so don't throw him in over his head till you teach him to swim.

Dear Miss Feely:

What do you think is a fair weekly allowance for a girl of 10? Recently I stopped my daughter's allowance simply because I found I was always providing extras after her own money was spent. She says 10 cents a week isn't enough, or as much as her friends get. What do you suggest?

Mrs. Jack N. Jersey City, N. J.

Dear Mrs. N.:
I suggest you put the young lady to work and let her earn a living wage. After all, the high cost of ice cream sodas hits a 10-year-old where it hurts the most. There's a lot a girl can do around the house. How about polishing silver? Sorting the laundry and loading the washer? Scrubbing the front stoop? Minding the baby? Making the beds? Decide first what her jobs are to be, how much you'll pay per job, and above all decide what her weekly earnings are expected to cover. If she works up to 75 cents a week, then she should save 10 to 15 cents each week. One of the most important reasons for an allowance in the first place is to help teach a child to save as well as to spend wisely. Be realistic about the expenses she will be expected to meet—perhaps Sunday School dues, Scout dues, movies, sodas, transportation. Once you have both agreed on the items, stick to it. When she runs short, she's just out of luck. Help her learn to think ahead—at least a few weeks—and plan for some major expenditure. Otherwise, give her a chance to make her own mistakes. It's a privilege as well as a valuable experience.

Altrusans Announce Guest Night Plans

The Appleton Altrusan Club has announced plans for its Annual Civic Guest Night dinner. The event will be held at 6:30 p.m. Thursday at the Appleton Elks Club.

Mrs. Edward Radtke, club president, will preside at the event. Miss Doris Kaup is general chairman. Committee heads are Mrs. Martin Laithke, reservations and tickets; Miss Marie Wick, dinner; Miss Mary Ruth Kuster and Miss Marie Blass, table decorations; and Miss Francis Bullman, program.

Invitations have been extended to Altrusan Clubs in Manitowish, Two Rivers, Green Bay, Sheboygan, Oshkosh and Fond du Lac, and to members of the Appleton, Valley and Twin City Elks Clubs.

The program will be an Altrus Theatre performance of "The Desk Set".

Tickets are available from Mrs. Laithke or any member of Altrusans.

It Takes Time to Teach Children How to Write

BY DR. EVE JONES

DEAR EVE JONES: Our 5-year-old kindergarten girl seems to prefer to use her left hand for everything. But when she writes, the letters are back w r d s. Does this mean she is really right-handed? Should we encourage her to use her right hand or just let her continue as is?

MRS. N. W.

Neither. Encourage her to learn to see and write her letters and numbers running from left to right as is customary. Many children who are left-handed actually see writing as a mirror image, but training and practice correct this.

By the way, why is your kindergarten girl writing? Especially when children have difficulties in perception, it's wiser to give them time to get to be at least 6 years old before asking them to use their brains, eyes, and hands in the complicated combination required for writing and reading.

Father Concerned With Self

DEAR EVE JONES: You are all-advising a domineering parent when you urge him to develop attitudes and values in the best interest of his child. If he's domineering, he's concerned with himself, with exacting the kind of absolute obedience that bolsters his picture of himself.

His ego can't take the kind of challenge you ask him to meet. He's so unsure of himself that he feels personally threatened by his child's normal rebellion to him. He has to guard his weakened ego and so he must stay surrounded by a hard shell of rigidity and unreasonableness.

You should have recommended that his father take a look at himself to find out why he expects complete and blind obedience from his child. And you should have pointed out to him that the best proof of success as a parent is to observe his child being responsible willingly and happily of his own accord, not under orders.

MISS B. J.

Labeling personality conflicts, talking about the ego and images and threats, and analyzing the source of conflicts is great fun for a psychology class.

But my advice is geared to living and to dealing in easy and effective ways with daily problems of a parent's world. The farther you're talking about still needs suggestions on how much obedience he can reasonably expect of his child. And he needs to be helped to learn how to obtain

Yacht Club Plans To Remove Wooden Slips From River

Removal of the old section of wooden slips extending into the Fox River is planned by the Appleton Yacht Club.

Harold Haak, representing the club, wrote the common council and asked it to authorize the city clerk to apply for necessary permits from the U.S. Corps of Engineers and Wisconsin Public Service Commission.

The yacht club intends to replace the old slips with a section of all steel slips that are similar to those erected in 1959.

All drawings, blueprints, and other necessary items needed to obtain the permits will be furnished by the Yacht Club, Haak said.

The Ailing House Furniture Needs Paint

BY ROGER C. WHITMAN

Q: I have several pieces of bedroom furniture that need repainting badly. Is there any easy way to get the antique effect of gold highlights on the surface?

A: Kits for repainting furniture in antique gold are available in various sizes (depending upon the number of pieces to be refinished) at some large paint and housewares dealers. Follow the manufacturer's instructions carefully.

Q: I am considering building a flagstone terrace - patio at the rear of my house, where there is a level area in the land slope. What is the procedure for this?

A: Excavate the area where the patio is to be constructed to a depth of about 10 inches. Then place cinders (not ashes) in the excavation and roll and tamp well to within five inches of the level desired. Over this put down a three-inch bed of concrete, using one part portland cement, two parts sand, and three parts of stone no larger than one inch. Use no more water than necessary to make a workable mixture. Follow this with a setting mixture of three parts sand and one part cement. As soon as the setting bed is leveled, sprinkle it with dry portland cement and lay down the flagstones in the pre-arranged pattern, being sure the stone is thoroughly wet when setting it. Point all joints with a mortar mixture of two parts of sand and one part cement.

Mahogany Award Winners

In a day when prestige furniture styles predominate, its prestige would inevitably return 18th century furniture in mahogany. But how widespread the return is surprised even the experts who judged the hundreds of entries in this year's Mahogany Awards Competition for Furniture Design, announced this week.

With much less fanfare than has furthered other traditional style comebacks, furniture from the great days of the 18th Century name designers has been increasingly both adapted and faithfully reproduced, and introduced in new groupings in the past several fashion seasons. Quiet, constant success stepped up the size of launched groupings and established new ones, and the 18th Century prevails unquestionably among the Competition Award winners.

The sketches show the over-all trend as evidenced by the top winners. Davids Cabinet won Best of Show for the Hardwick Hall Collection, designed by W. T. Baker, and claims the big Obelisk, shown at center. This collection also won the bedroom and dining room pieces at top and lower right are Hardwick Hall, and this collection also won the bedroom and dining room classification awards. Another double winner is Hickory Chair, with the James River collection, in the table and occasional piece categories. Hickory is represented here by the dining table at lower left, the small cabinet above it and the small table at right.

Practice, Polish Make Drill Team Into Precision Unit

Since 1959 the 19 members of the American Legion Junior Auxiliary who decided to join the newly organizing drill team have been holding weekly practice sessions. The young women, whose ages range from 13 through 18, have become precision marchers, carrying out intricate maneuvers with the polish of a Swiss watch.

Uniforms for the unit, led by Mrs. Edward Arndt Jr., advisor, and James Vaughan, drill master, consist of navy blue skirts, gold jackets and navy blue overseas caps. The Tuesday night practice sessions at Foster School and the seriousness with which the members take their work have won for them the Runner-Up Trophy at the Mariner Drill-O-Rama competition for the last two years. The latest competition for teams from Wisconsin and Illinois was held Sunday.

The team has appeared at state American Legion conventions at Green Bay in 1960; Waukegan, 1961; Oshkosh, 1962, and will compete in the 1963 convention to be held in Madison in July. They have made guest appearances at the 1960, '61 and '62 Americanos Drum and Bugle Corps Fiesta Mustangs. The corps has appeared in all local parades since 1959, and has also marched in parades in Kaukauna, Kimberly, Black Creek, Stevens Point, Lena and other cities. Parade dates are made by the adult leaders.

Each Step Must be taken a certain way, and formations become perfect only when repeated time after time. The excellence of the team's efforts is evident in the record they have achieved since their organization.

Incentive Lacking In Russian Laborer

"The people, the animals and the people to work," he said. "The land are no different in Russia government determines their life than they are in the United States. Her fiancé is a graduate of Gilman High School, Gilman, and is a student at Wisconsin State College, Oshkosh.

He found the Ukrainians and Georgians to be very individual. "This did not like us to refer to them as Russians," he said, but preferred to be identified by their region. The people were hungry for information about the United States and how we did things, he pointed out. The members of the tour had no difficulty getting their ideas translated, though Mr. Stapel did admit that they never could explain what soap, beer and cigarettes had to do with television. The high school age in Russia is from 7 to 17, he noted. Only the honor students in high school are eligible for further tests by the government to determine whether they will receive further education. The government decides from the test results what field the student will continue in study and subsidize his education. Because the clothing is manufactured by the government, he said, it is not unusual to see your dress coming toward you on the street—often. The people are very much like the Americans, he noted. They laugh, they talk and they are interested in other people. The incentive to improve is just not there.

Say Vows in Double Ring Nuptial Rite

Lawrence Bogenschutz claimed Miss Susan Ashman as his bride in a 10 a.m. ceremony Dec. 29 at St. Pius X Catholic Church. The Rev. John Van Deuren performed the double ring rite. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Ashman, 2015 Hickory Court, and Mr. and Mrs. Orville Schermann, 1206 W. Brewster St.

Miss Ann Jack attended as maid of honor. The bride's sister, Miss Kerry Ashman, and a sister of the bridegroom, Miss Sandra Bogenschutz acted as bridesmaids. Best man was Kenneth Scheuer, Richard Wankey and John Ashman, a brother of the bride, seated the guests.

A dinner was served at the home of the bridegroom's parents and a reception was held at the church hall. The couple was graduated from the Appleton High School. The bride is employed at the Wisconsin Telephone Co. The bridegroom is attending the Appleton Vocational and Adult School. After a Milwaukee honeymoon, the couple will reside at 315 E. Pacific St.

Don't Let Table Talk Upset You

We all know that people shouldn't talk during the bidding or play of a bridge hand, but we also know that they sometimes do. Fortunately, this table talk doesn't seem to help the chief offenders.

West opened the nine of spades, and South was with the ten. Declarer continued with two more rounds of trumps and then led the nine of diamonds.

"Is that a singleton?" West asked, looking suspiciously at the tin offending card "If it is, I'm going to grab my trick."

"I cannot tell a lie," South replied. "That is my only diamond."

Nobody can censure South for this statement. He didn't start the conversation and what he said was the simple truth.

Takes Ace

West believed South and took the ace of diamonds. Now there was no way to defeat the contract. South could eventually throw two clubs on dummy's king and queen of diamonds.

Strangely enough West could defeat the contract only if South had a singleton diamond. But West would have to give up his diamond trick by playing the ten or jack of diamonds instead of the ace.

Dummy would win with the queen of diamonds, but then there would be no second diamond trick for declarer. He would eventually lose two club tricks to East.

It isn't always wise to grab your ace when declarer leads a singleton through you. Moreover, if you're informal enough to chatter while a hand is going on, don't use correct information to make the wrong play.

Daily Question

Dealer bids one club partner doubles for a takeout, and the next player passes. You hold S 6 3 H 10 5 2 D 8 6 5 4 C Q 10 9 8. What do you say?

Answer: Bid one diamond. Don't dream of passing, despite the weakness of your hand. The weaker, the hand the more essential the takeout.

Congresswoman Reid Proves 'Dumb Like Fox'

BY CHARLES NICODENUS
Chicago Daily News Service

WASHINGTON — Hazel-eyed, brunet Charlotte Reid has showed the capital's most critical audience that to go with her beauty she is "dumb like a fox" and a non-conformist to boot.

Which means that her success in Congress seems assured.

The only new woman in the 88th Congress presided at her first press conference here Wednesday, gently shattered idols right and left and shaped up as one of the canniest female lawmakers to walk down the political pike in years.

The 49-year-old Aurora (Ill.) widow, who looks as if she's in her 30's, also shaped up — literally — as the best-looking female in Congress.

Conservative Sex Appeal

The news conference was called for her by the GOP National Committee staff, which jumped at the chance to give some exposure to a conservative with sex appeal.

Mrs. Reid — a vocalist with Don McNeill's breakfast club radio show in the late 30's — gave a performance that apparently satisfied that most difficult-to-please breed of fauna, the Washington newsmen.

In her 30 minutes Mrs. Reid broke more icons than most congressmen do in a career, by allowing as how She's got an awful lot to learn, and she's not an expert on any thing.

Garden Club Studies Arrangements

The Valley View Garden Club learned fine points of flower arranging Sunday evening when they met at Riverside Greenhouse. Mrs. Vera Radtke presented the program, and conducted a tour of the greenhouse.

The importance of visualizing in advance the type of arrangement desired was stressed by the speaker. The place the arrangement will be used should also be considered at the outset, she said.

Flowers should be cut with a sharp knife, using curved as well as straight stems to give an arrangement a more natural and artistic look, the speaker noted. Woody stems should be pounded to a pulp to encourage water absorption. Juicy stems should be seared with a flame or hot water. The cut flowers should be plunged into water immediately and allowed to stand for several hours before arranging.

The vase should be selected with its setting in mind. If a buffet arrangement is planned, a low bowl might be preferred. The arrangement should be one and a half times the height of the container. Outline the arrangement, setting the tallest flowers in place first, and then filling in with stems of different lengths, using foliage for the final fill-in.

Light-colored flowers should be placed at the top of the arrangement, dark and large flowers at the bottom. The speaker also told the garden club members that large numbers of flowers are not necessary for a satisfactory arrangement. A single blossom in the proper container can be very elegant.

In discussing care of the houseplants, Mrs. Radtke informed the club that, except for violets and gloxinia, the leaves of plants should be washed at least once a month under a tap to allow them the necessary humidity.

Above, Mrs. W. R. Richards carefully observed Mrs. Vera Radtke as she put together a red and white arrangement. The speaker told how to prepare stems of flowers to be used in a grouping and how to select flowers that will create a desired effect. At left, Mrs. Roman J. Knight practices her new ideas at the Monday evening meeting.

MADISON — The third annual Women's Day at the University of Wisconsin, open to all state women regardless of their almae status, has been scheduled for Tuesday, April 23, on the Madison campus.

Mrs. Eldon Russell, Madison UW graduate and prominent member of the Board of Visitors, is general chairman for the event sponsored by the Wisconsin Alumni Association.

Pres. Fred Harvey Harrington will open the day's proceedings at 9:30 a.m. in Wisconsin Center auditorium. Programs will be concerned with new patterns of thought and new interpretations in education, the arts, science, economics and family living.

Mrs. Russell will be assisted by Mrs. Conrad Elvehjem, program chairman; Mrs. Grace Chatterton and Mrs. John Walsh, planning committee; Mrs. George Kroneke and Mrs. James Geisler, local arrangements; Mrs. Harold Schubert, exhibits; and Miss Katherine McCaul, Tanager, and Mrs. Isabel Craig, Janesville, state arrangements advisory committee.

NEW GARMENT RESTORES NORMAL APPEARANCE AFTER BREAST SURGERY

Now help is available to women who must undergo mastectomy surgery and they are urged to get full details of the approved identical form that simulates an ordinary breast because the sooner women can resume normal interests and activities, the happier and healthier they will be. After thorough study and research, a scientifically designed breast form appears to be the final answer to both the patient's and the doctor's requirements.

Thanks to a leading X-ray technician, an incredibly life-like form with a fluid motion and balanced weight presents the first basically sound approach to flawless compensation after surgery. Made with a skin-like plastic film that's soft and flesh-like in texture, they are filled with a liquid which, not only equalizes weight but also tends to conform to the shape of a well-fitted brassiere and gives you the natural and life-like feel of a normal breast. There is no need for pinning, no adjusting and they never ride up.

Called "Identical Forms," they are the boon to women who must have help and are sold and fitted by Glendomans Dept. Store in Appleton. A wide range of sizes makes it possible to fit every type of figure. Doctors recommend that you be fitted as soon as possible after surgery. Identical Forms also automatically give some body temperature and follow breast motion in every position — sitting, bending, reclining, standing. Being a natural and equalizing weight, they help you to maintain natural shoulder and posture. Glendomans has a large list of stores in this area.

Hadassah Observes Youth Aliyah Work

The Appleton Chapter of Hadassah held its annual Youth Aliyah tea and business meeting Tuesday at Montefiore Social Center. Hostesses for the meeting were Mrs. Ivor Lewis, Mrs. Samuel Malofsky, Mrs. Milton Liers and Mrs. Allen Paul.

Mrs. Irving Krichmar, president, gave a tribute to the late Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt for her work as head of the National Youth Aliyah Advisory Committee of Hadassah.

In 1949 Mrs. Roosevelt received the first Henrietta Szold Citation Award in recognition of her participation with Hadassah in the rescue and rehabilitation of 40,000 Jewish children through Youth Aliyah. She returned the $1,000 award accompanied by the citation to be used for a music library in Youth Aliyah's Reception Center at Ramat Hadassah.

Mrs. Roosevelt visited Israel in 1953, 1956 and February, 1962, in connection with her work with Youth Aliyah.

Mrs. Jacob Shulcrat gave the current event report and Mrs. Arnold Cohodas reported on Youth Aliyah.

A board meeting was scheduled for 1:15 p.m. Jan. 22 at the home of Mrs. Eli Fielkow.

A predonor tea will be held Jan. 29 at the home of Mrs. David Bailin. Mrs. Cohodas, Mrs. Robert Gordon, Mrs. Stanley Hamulion, Mrs. Krichmar and Mrs. Philip Jacobson will serve as hostesses. A demonstration and talk on wigs will be presented by William Kriel.

Keep Insurance in Order for Man Who Won't Watch Health

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: My husband is a 38-year-old, hard-hitting, drives business man. We have a lovely home and a fine family, but he is too busy to notice. When the stock market goes down a quarter of a point he notices that, however.

Three years ago Lew had a serious heart attack. His doctors told him he must lose 40 pounds and quit smoking. He hasn't lost an ounce and he smokes more than ever. He has had diabetes for ten years and is all right when he remembers to take his medicine. When he doesn't remember he goes into shock. This has happened twice in the last six months.

I've begged, pleaded, threatened, cried and even left him, but nothing fazed him. He still eats whatever he wants, smokes, drinks too much and works 14 hours a day. What can I do with a man like this?—Frankie Dear Frankie: Nothing. But you can do something for yourself and your family. See that his insurance is in order and check with his lawyer to make certain he has made a will.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am 18 and live at home with my parents and two older sisters.

When I graduated from high school two years ago I wanted to leave this small town and go to a designing school in Chicago, but my parents and older sisters wouldn't hear of it. They said they'd miss me and worry about me, and besides, they said, there is too much meanness in the world and they didn't want me to get involved in it.

Maybe I should be grateful for the love and interest of my family, but instead I am resentful. We talked about this again last night and they tell me I'm ungrateful and that I have no right to worry them.

If this is love, I hope I never love my children. Please help me. —Carbondale

Dear Carbondale: Love makes no demands. It is willing to take its chances, for all of life is risky. The Indian poet Tagore said, "Let my love, like sunlight, surround you and give you illumined freedom." And this is what love should do. Love that shackles and imprisons is not love at all.

The ultimate goal which parents should wish for their children is independence. So leave the nest, little bird, while you still have the desire and the courage to fly.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our daughter Roxanne was 15 last August. She has always acted older than her years and even began dating at 12. We just couldn't hold her.

She met a sailor who is based nearby and has gone completely crazy over him. He is 20 years old, doesn't say much, has tattoos on his hands and arms and a cigarette hangs out of his mouth at all times.

The sailor will be leaving soon for 18 months of overseas duty. Roxanne wants to be "pre-engaged" to him before he ships out. She says this is not a regular engagement, just an understanding that they will wait for each other. They would wear each other's friendship rings.

We are ready to say yes just to get some peace and quiet around the house. We are tired of all the fighting. —Worn Out

Dear Worn Out: No 15-year-old girl should tie herself up with a boy friend who is half a world away. Say no. It's high time you saved this girl from herself by telling her what to do. This is what parents are for.

To learn how to keep your boy friend in line without losing him, send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Necking and Petting — And How Far To Go," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Nun's Long Career, Devotion to Duty Earns Her Host of Friends

BY JACQUELINE FIX

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

The art of healing found in a kind word, a soothing hand and a gentle smile has been the province of Sister M. Bilfrieda for 38 years at St. Elizabeth Hospital.

The tiny nun's devoted care has won her a special spot in the hearts of her many patients over the years. They remember her with fondness and return often to see her.

Sister Bilfrieda is retired now but she can't turn her back on the patients she served for so long. She still gives of her time to visit with them, cheer them up, perhaps help feed them.

Sister Bilfrieda came to the United States from Germany in the fall of 1924. She spent five months in St. Louis, Mo., and then came to St. Elizabeth.

The building the hospital has now outgrown was new then, with no paint on the walls and no curtains or shades. It was on the outskirts of town, and she could watch cows in the pasture from a window.

Sister Bilfrieda had entered the Franciscan Order in 1916 and been trained as a nurse in Germany. She could speak no English when she came to America, and so "expected to scrub floors and peel potatoes."

Nursing Work Instead she was put to work nursing at once. The doctors particularly Dr. J. B. MacLaren, tutored her in English and helped her with charting. "They were so good to me," she remembers, with her quick, almost shy smile.

"I was strong when I came, but I could go without sleep," she recalls. Often she would work until after midnight and be up again in the chapel at 4 a.m.

Sister Bilfrieda's place over again when 52 were brought to the hospital from a train accident on Thanksgiving eve, 1945.

"When she goes downtown she meets all her friends," said another nun.

One former patient and his family have moved to Tennessee, but they return twice a year to visit of night duty at St. Elizabeth, Sister Bilfrieda. "They're like my own people," she says.

Each year for 35 years another patient has brought her German Christmas cards to send home. She has returned twice to Germany to visit her family, for four months in 1934 and for six weeks in 1955.

Sister Bilfrieda has many memories from her long nursing ca-

CONFLICTING OCCASIONS

Dear Louise: We have two wedding invitations for the same day and are in a quandary as to which to attend.

One is that of our niece who will be married in another city about 100 miles from here. We don't see her or her parents very often. The other is that of our son-in-law's sister, when our daughter is to be matron of honor. We have never met the sister, her parents or the groom and his parents. The only reason why I'd like to attend the wedding would be to see our daughter coming down the aisle in her lovely dress. My husband says I am very wrong to even consider going under the circumstances. Will you please tell me which is the proper thing to do?

Louise Davis Answers:

It is difficult for an outsider to advise as the proper thing to do about a family matter. However, from a protocol analysis, your niece's wedding has the priority. She is a blood relation and your son-in-law's sister is no relation at all. You have little or no interest in the bride and the bridegroom or their families, and I therefore think that your conscience will tell you what to do.

If your only reason for attending the wedding is to see how pretty your daughter looks, your excuse is pretty slim. If you decide to attend the niece's wedding, surely your daughter can don her dress so that you can picture how she will look.

reer. She helped care for the many injured when a floor at Kimberly-Clark caved in, and again when 52 were brought to the hospital from a train accident on Thanksgiving eve, 1945.

She once took care of an Indian chief. Later he came chugging up in a Model T Ford and wanted to take her for a ride.

Sister Bilfrieda had eight years of night duty at St. Elizabeth, serving as night supervisor.

She learned heavy responsibility early in her career as a nurse during World War I. In 1918 she had charge of 100 wounded soldiers. Sometimes the one doctor came only once a day, she remembers.

She offers this advice to the young nurse. "Be kind to your patients—that's what they need."

$2964.*

We price them small. But we build them big.

$2964 is the kind of price most people associate with a smaller car. They seldom expect to find it on a full-size, precision-engineered Chrysler Newport 4-door sedan.

After all, look at all the value a Chrysler offers. Features like torsion-bar suspension, all-welded, one-piece body; carpeting; trip odometer; and the Newport engine that performs like a champ on regular gasoline.

Then, there's the way a Chrysler is put together. Quality all the way. So well made, in fact, that your Chrysler dealer provides you with America's longest and best new car warranty—5 years or 50,000 miles. You have fewer worries about expensive repair bills. And because the warranty can be passed on to the next owner, you can count on excellent Chrysler resale value.

So, if you cotton to smaller prices, big value and big cars (remember, we don't build any jr. editions) get in touch with your Chrysler dealer.

Xavier Tuition To be Raised $20 Next Fall

Also Possibility of Parish Contribution Increases for Year

An across-the-board tuition raise of $20 is being planned by Xavier High School for next fall. The raise will increase tuition to $235 for seniors, $115 for juniors, $95 for sophomores and $75 for freshmen.

There also is a possibility of an increase in the parish contribution for each parish member attending Xavier, according to Brother Peter, school director.

The parish contribution was raised from $50 to $80 a student last fall to meet the added cost of a higher salary schedule when Xavier raised its base salary for lay teachers from $4,100 to $4,700. The base salary will remain the same next year, Brother Peter said.

The tuition hike is necessitated by the increasing number of students and consequent need for more teachers, by the desire to keep up the basic pay scale under which teachers receive an increment for each year of experience and by a desire to expand some departments, such as the art laboratory, Brother Peter said.

Xavier's enrollment continues to climb, and it may be necessary to institute a split shift and an extended school day next year, the director said. With a split shift, more teachers would be needed, he noted.

A definite decision will be made after Jan. 18, when registration for next year is complete, he said.

Xavier's enrollment this year is 1,895. If the school gets the same percentage of eighth graders from Catholic grade schools that it has in the past, the enrollment next year will be from 1,275 to 1,300 students, Brother Peter said.

The school is investigating possibilities by which it can continue to accept all youngsters who register and make greater use of the present facilities, he said.

There are no plans at present for expansion of the school building, he said, although a committee is working on the possibilities.

Last February several Appleton architects were asked for suggestions on the most feasible manner of expanding the school in keeping with the original architectural theme and with the minimum cost. Xavier originally was built with future expansion in mind.

New Squad Cars Recommended by Common Council

Purchase of five new squad cars for the Appleton Police Department has been recommended by the common council's public safety committee.

The committee accepted the low bid for V-8, four-door Chevrolets, of $7,595 from Gibson Company, Inc., 131 S. Superior St. The figure includes a trade-in allowance for five used squad cars.

Second lowest bid was that of Sherry Motors, Inc., 325-336 W. Washington St., in the amount of $7,830 for the same number of Fords.

The third bid, $8,133.75, was submitted by Sam Malofsky Motor Co., 1850 W. Wisconsin Ave., for Rambler models.

Delay Sentencing for Youth Who Entered Store 6 Times

Sentencing of a 15-year-old Appleton youth who admitted he broke into the W. T. Grant store at Valley Fair on six occasions in November and December was delayed until Monday by Judge Raymond P. Dohr, the county's juvenile court judge.

The youth was adjudged a delinquent Thursday at a hearing before Judge Dohr. He was arrested by Winnebago County sheriff authorities New Year's day when he was found hiding in the store basement. He has been held in the Outagamie County jail since his arrest.

The youth admitted he broke into the store twice on Nov. 11, and once on Nov. 25, Dec. 9, Christmas day and New Year's day. On all break-ins, the youth

'Sea of Paper' Threatens to Choke Lifeblood of Business, SAM Told

University of Minnesota Professor Lists Four Major Barriers to Communications

MANITOWOC — "A sea of paper threatens to choke the lifeblood out of every business in the country today."

That was the warning of Dr. Ralph G. Nichols, of the University of Minnesota, who discussed "Barriers to Communication" at the dinner session of the Fox Valley Chapter of Society for Advancement of Management at Branch River Country Club.

This "memorandum mania" is just one of four major communications barriers, Dr. Nichols explained. Others are the "good news complex," the problem of status and what he called "the increasing weight of our cultural heritage."

The popular slogan, "Don't say it—write it," has given impetus to the movement to write and file away so many things that one out of six workers is a clerical worker "who does nothing but shuffle, file and unfile paper," he said. "Much of man's knowledge is lost in the files where you can't find it again."

Don't Answer Dr. Nichols jested, "I learned some time ago not to answer questionnaires. If you fill out a questionnaire, the guy who sent it will send you a report that you don't know what to do with, either."

"You have to be a bearer of good tidings if you want to be promoted," Dr. Nichols warned, and this "works a little mischief in business." No one wants to bring bad news, he said, and when the time of reckoning comes, "the buck can be passed faster than the board chairman can chase it."

Status has an adverse effect on "vertical" communications, Dr. Nichols explained. Horizontal communications — foreman with foreman and vice president with vice president — can be carried on effectively, he said, but much less of the message gets through from top to bottom when one participant is constantly sensitive to the fact that his superior has the power to say yes or no, he said. There was a time, Dr. Nichols noted, when parents tried to pass on all their knowledge and experience to their children in the first 12 or 14 years of their life so the children could go on to bigger and better things from there. The tremendous growth of knowledge, particularly in the last 10 years, has changed that. Man's body of knowledge doubled from the time of Christ to 1700, he said, redoubled by 1900, doubled again by 1950 and doubled again in the following decade.

Thus man's knowledge is 16 times greater, "but we aren't 16 times more efficient at communicating than was Aristotle," he noted.

"Parents cannot pass on their cultural knowledge because they don't know what the children will need to know," he said. "I don't even know what my youngsters are talking about!"

Past presidents of SAM were recognized at the dinner session.

Sewage Treatment Plant Inspection Planned Jan. 18

Work done to date on the $1,300,000 addition to the Appleton sewage treatment plant will be inspected by federal officials Jan. 18.

The inspection is a procedural matter in connection with the city's application for a $250,000 grant from the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Notification of the pending inspection was received by City Clerk Elden Broehm Thursday from B. W. Dahl, of the U.S. department's Chicago regional office.

"To facilitate this inspection, it will be helpful if a representative of your consulting engineering firm is available during the course of the inspection, together with a representative of the city," Dahl wrote city officials.

Deadline for filing is Jan. 29.

Lester H. Ness Elected Potentate Of Tripoli Shrine

Lester H. Ness, Glendale, has been elected potentate of Tripoli Shrine Temple, Milwaukee.

Other officers named at the annual election meeting were B. Howard Schaefer, Racine, chief rabban; Vernon M. Bushman, De Pere, assistant rabban; Judge Milton L. Meister, West Bend, high priest and prophet; and Clyde R. Swartz, Edgemoor, Ill., oriental guide.

Widely known in business circles, Ness is vice president and secretary of the Cramer-Krasansky Co., Milwaukee, advertising and public relations agency.

The new potentate is a member of Lake Park Lutheran Church, Milwaukee, the Milwaukee Press Club, the Kiwanis Club of Milwaukee and the Milwaukee Athletic Club.

Vender Wants to Put Machines in Ramp

George Karras, partner in an Appleton covering and vending service, has sent a letter to the common council requesting permission to install a cigarette and candy machine in the warming room of the parking structure at Washington and N. Division Streets.

"Most modern public areas now are equipped with vending units as an additional convenience to the public, as well as increased revenue to the city," Karras wrote.

Appleton Won't Have Reassessment Sampling

Finance Committee Rejects Any Move to Have Outside Firm Come in for Project

There will be no sampling reassessment of the City of Appleton in 1963.

The decision was made by members of the common council's finance committee at city hall Thursday night.

All of the city's 30 aldermen had been invited to attend but only three, in addition to committee members, showed up.

Since the spring of 1962 the finance committee had held in abeyance a resolution by former alderman, Roy Pointer, to conduct a sample reassessment. If a complete reassessment of the city was deemed necessary, then the project would be undertaken so that money could be set aside for a capital improvements program, according to the resolution.

Resolution Rejected No one spoke in favor of any type of a reassessment and Pointer's resolution was unanimously rejected by the committee and will now be reported out to the common council for final disposition.

There were more than 18,000 pieces of property in the city in 1962 with an assessed valuation of $139,484,125.

Ald Alvin Tews (5th), committee chairman, commented, "It is my personal opinion that a reassessment sampling would be a waste of money."

Property is being assessed in Appleton at a 47 to 53 per cent of value, with residential at the lower figure.

The committee expressed full confidence in assessment procedures and policies of Assessor John Peirre, who indicated he had records in his office to show that he is constantly taking samplings to keep up-to-date.

Valuation Increases The city's assessed valuation has been increasing from 5 to 8 per cent annually. Pierre and his staff have a set procedure for reviewing property, taking sections of the city at a time.

Information obtained by City Clerk Elden Broehm, at the request of the committee, disclosed the reassessment project in Green Bay in 1960 cost $125,000. Before it was undertaken, property was assessed at 46 per cent; after at 104 per cent. It took from April of 1959 to September of 1960 to have a private firm do the reassessment. The first year it was completed, there were 2,039 complaints registered.

The City of Neenah hired a firm for $54,600 to conduct a reassessment in 1961 and it was completed last year, raising the percentage ratio from 36 to 95 per cent. When completed, the board of review had about 500 complaints and made reductions in assessments totaling $250,000.

Mayor Clarence Mitchell, who indicated he did not favor a reassessment sampling at this time, reported on recent conversations with officials from several Fox River Valley communities. He said, for example, that at Green Bay assessments on industry and commercial properties went down and residential went up after the reassessment had been made.

"When talking about hiring a firm to conduct a reassessment, we are talking in terms of about Turn to Page 3, Col. 4

Agency Fined for Not Installing Seat Belts

May be First Time in State

An Appleton automobile agency installed when he bought the car from Arrow Auto Sales.

Van Ryzin said he checked the invoice on the car and confirmed that the car was sold without seat belts being included. He said he questioned the salesman, and the salesman was of the opinion that the car was manufactured in 1961, and did not have to comply with the new ruling.

Phelan Van Ryzin, president of the Arrow Auto Sales, 742 W. College Ave., pleaded guilty today to the charge and was fined $15 in Outagamie County Court, Branch 2. Van Ryzin said the offense was an oversight and that other 1962 and 1963 model cars are being inspected to see that they comply with the state statute requiring seat belts.

State statutes require that all new cars sold in the state be equipped with safety belts.

Wisconsin is one of the first states to require the installation by law.

It is believed to be the first time in the state that an auto dealer was charged with not complying with the statute.

Discovered Violation The violation was discovered by an Appleton patrolman who investigated a minor accident Thursday at College Avenue and Locust Street. The patrolman discovered that one of the cars, a 1962 model, did not have the required belts.

The driver said they were not

Little Chute Building Hits $483,160 Mark

Total Down From Previous Year, Report Discloses

LITTLE CHUTE — New building in the village during 1962 amounted to $483,160, compared to the 1961 total of $935,575.

Since the 1961 total included a $500,000 building for the United Grocers Warehouse, other construction remained fairly even, according to the annual report by Henry Dercks, building inspector.

A total of 24 new homes costing $372,600 was constructed while 17 garages costing $13,850 were constructed. Residential alterations numbered 34 and total building cost was $27,600. Two garages were moved at a cost of $310 and one advertising sign was erected at a cost of $150.

Commercial Building Nine permits for commercial additions were issued. These included, a $20,000 block building addition to Crystal Print, a $10,000 steel warehouse at Essential Products and an $8,000 remodeling project at Essential Products.

Three stores had new fronts built and other interior changes made at a total cost of $4,300. A new display room was built at Williamson Greenhouse at a cost of $6,000 and a warehouse was constructed by a hardware store at a cost of $3,000.

The pop factory constructed an $8,000 addition and a steel garage for auto-body repair work was constructed at a cost of $8,000.

Pleas of innocent to the charge, which alleges damage to a truck leased by the Appleton firm while it was parked in Neenah on Nov. 10, were entered earlier by Francis Conard, 610 Monroe St., Neenah, Howard Hahn Jr., 1532 Gunn St., Appleton, and Clifford Lappen, 916 E. La Follette St., Little Chute. Each is free on $500 bond.

Unhappy Home Cause Of Juvenile Delinquent

Wales Boy's School Superintendent Says Problem Is Not Poor Vs. Rich

The most common source of juvenile delinquents is the unhappy home, Roland Hershman, superintendent of the Wisconsin School for Boys at Wales, said. He does.

The first three days of his stay are an orientation period. At the end of that time a social worker begins to work with him, and on the seventh day psychological tests are administered. A psychologist seems him between his 12th and 15th days.

By the end of the third week a report of his home situation has been reviewed, and at the end of a month a recommendation for action is made to the State Department of Public Welfare.

Either the boys are released, they are sent to the reformatory at Green Bay or they are enrolled at the training school. The majority fall into the last category, Hershman said.

The training center has a high school and grade school, and there is an "ungraded" school for special students. The boys also receive vocational education to introduce them to basic trade skills.

Attend Church The boys receive religious training at Catholic and Protestant chapels. Though participation is voluntary, almost all the boys attend church, Hershman said.

Each boy also has a job at the boys' school. Assignments are made according to the ability of the individual, and care is taken that work is not meted out as punishment.

Recreational facilities also are provided. There are variety basketball and football teams and intramural leagues.

Medical practices are kept at a high standard. Surgery and medicine are provided whenever necessary.

The training school tries to provide the things a good father would want his son to have, Hershman stated. "Our job is to be responsible to each boy as an individual and to develop each as his talents permit."

Traffic Violators Would Attend Class On Driver Education

A traffic safety school has been proposed by Outagamie County Judge Gustave J. Keller. The proposal was presented to the Appleton Board of Vocational and Adult Education.

Under the proposal, the vocational school would offer a five week, two-hour class to young traffic violators who appeared in county court.

"This is primarily for education, not for punishment," Judge Keller told board members.

Under the plan, violators who were found guilty or who entered a guilty plea could attend the sessions if they wish. Keller indicated that sentence would be deferred until the youth had satisfactorily completed the course.

The defendant would then pay court costs, but would not be made to pay a fine.

Cost of the session would be $3 to $4 for the student. State aid is available.

Bertram has notified Judge Keller today that plans are being developed for the school. Bertram indicated he would confer with Keller on the plans.

Pleads Innocent of Drunken Driving

John P. Tierney, 30, 1907 E. Jackson St., pleaded innocent of drunken driving and will face trial Feb. 11 before County Judge Raymond P. Dohr. Tierney's bond of $250 was continued today when he appeared to make his plea.

Tierney was arrested by Appleton police and filed an affidavit of prejudice against County Judge Gustave Keller on Jan. 4.

Russians Will Visit UW's Madison Campus

MADISON (AP) — Two Soviet seismologists will visit the University of Wisconsin-Madison campus Jan. 17-19 in connection with the school's geologists and inspect laboratories and equipment.

The University said Thursday that the two men are U. V. Riechert, of Russia's Institute of Physics of the Earth, and E. S. Borovikov, deputy director of the institute.
